MANSFIELDER LOSES HAND IN CAR MISHAP

Mrs. Clyde Duncan Injured as Holiday Mishaps Begin To Take Toll In Ohio.

YOUTH KILLED IN CRASH

Fredericktown Resident Dies as Motorcycle and Auto Collide In Canton.

A Mansfield woman suffered the loss of her right hand and a Fredericktown youth was dead today as the result of two pre-holiday traffic accidents outside the Mansfield area. A Crestline man was injured in another accident last night in Mansfield.

Injured in a mishap at 5 a. m. today near Cleveland was Mrs. Clyde Duncan, 46, of 182 Harker street. She is in Glenville hospital, Cleveland.

Dead as a result of an accident yesterday in Canton was Harold Levering, jr., 17, of Fredericktown.

Mrs. Duncan's right hand was mangled so badly that it was necessary to amputate it at the wrist, reports from the hospital said. She also received bruises. Authorities who investigated said Mrs. Duncan had her arm outside the door when the car turned over, crushing the hand.

Mrs. Duncan's son, Edward Charles, 22, who was driving, and Mrs. Myrtle Ward, 45, also of Mansfield, a passenger, escaped injury when the car turned over at Coit road and Lake Shore boulevard after sideswiping another car, police said. The trio left Mansfield last night for Cleveland to visit friends.

Notified of the accident this morning, Duncan left Mansfield immediately for Cleveland to be with his wife.

Young Duncan, who is in the navy and stationed on the U. S. S. Saratoga, an aircraft carrier, returned home last Tuesday for a furlough. He had been in the navy since last winter and came home from San Diego, Calif.

Fatally injured at 7:45 a. m. Friday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Canton, young Levering died shortly before 3 a. m. today in Mercy hospital, Canton.

Stark county authorities said Levering suffered internal injuries,

Drove Crash Car

Edward Charles Duncan, 22, home on furlough, was the driver of car that crashed in Bratenahl, Cleveland suburb, early today, resulting in serious injury to his mother, Mrs. Clyde Duncan, Mansfield. Duncan is a seaman aboard the Saratoga, U. S. navy aircraft carrier. Although the car upset, Duncan was reported uninjured.

SEEK PASSAGE OF TAX BILL

Leaders Begin Vote Round-up To Speed Action on Giant Revenue Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Leaders sought to line up senate votes today for prompt approval next week of the finance committee's $3,672,400,000 revenue bill—biggest in history.

The bill, estimated by the treasury to yield $456,000,000 more than a similar measure approved by the house, would hit both individuals and corporations and increase existing taxes all along the line.

In raising $84,500,000 additional from so-called "nuisance taxes" it would impose new levies on the man who buys an automobile or a saxophone, an electric light bulb or a washing machine.

It would lower existing income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single individuals, thus bringing more than 6,000,000 additional persons under the federal income tax structure.

"This bill is unfortunate but

FAVOR USE OF NEW OIL BARGES

Senate Committeemen In Accord With Land Proposal.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Proposals to ease the east coast gasoline shortage by construction of 100 reinforced concrete petroleum barges received a favorable reception today by the senate committee investigating the oil situation.

Members said they would reserve recommendations until they had questioned railroad officials about the availability of tank cars. Sen. Harold H. Burton, (R. O.), said he hoped the "ultimate solution of the problem" would come from the railroads.

Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission told the committee the shortage, caused by transfer of tankers to British and defense services, could be solved by construction of the barges.

SHOOTING WITH INTENT TO KILL CHARGE FILED

Police Act Despite Wife's Pleas To Free Mate After Brush With Death.

SHOT THROUGH WINDOW

Officers Told Gun Aimed at Shadow of Woman as She Sat on Porch.

While a Mansfield man was being held in city jail on charges of shooting with intent to kill his wife with a shotgun charge fired through a window as she sat in a rocking chair on their front porch last night, the wife pleaded with police to withhold charges against her husband.

Andrew Kozma, 34, of 518 North Mulberry street, was taken into custody by police after his wife, Mary, had telephoned from a neighbor's home shortly before 8:30 p. m. yesterday that he had attempted to shoot her following an argument.

After questioning Mrs. Kozma, police theorized that her huband had aimed the shotgun at her shadow against a front window shade while she rocked in the chair on the porch.

Officers said she told them she heard the click of a gun being cocked and ducked toward the floor of the porch, narrowly escaping the blast of the 12-gauge shotgun. The lead pellets tore through the shade and window little more than a foot above her head, according to police records.

Although Mrs. Kozma asked Police Chief Meake K. Bates not to press charges against her husband, County Prosecutor Harold L. Lutz announced that an affidavit had been filed charging Kozma with shoting with intent to kill.

Kozma cannot be arraigned until Tuesday because Judge G. E.

RELEASES SET

Army Expects to Free 200,000 Men By Dec. 10.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— With a total estimated strength of 1,576,400 officers and men, the army today planned to release 200,000 by Dec. 10 but replace them with new soldiers.

The men released will be in the reserve forces until they are 45, or for 10 more years, whichever period is shorter. The war department said the men would be released only if the international situation did not worsen.

The releases of draftees and National Guardsmen, the department said, would be on the basis of priorities—hardship cases, men who were 28 before induction, and married men who have completed a year of service.

LAVAL ATTACKER GETS SYMPATHY

Anti-Soviet Legion Backs Up Clemency Request, Paris Papers Soften.

VICHY, Unoccupied France — Sympathy for Paul Collette, youthful DeGaullist who attempted to assassinate Premier Laval this week, became evident today even as the wounded politician lay fighting for his life.

In response to sentiment in favor of Colette, the anti-Soviet legion, which Laval was sponsoring when he was shot, decided to back Laval's gesture in asking that Colette be treated with clemency.

Furthermore, latest editions of the newspapers of German-occupied Paris were much milder in attacks on Colette than they had been, and some even defended him.

At the same time letters and telegrams of condolences for Laval continued to pour into the Versailles hospital where he remained in grave condition.

After a slight rally last night during which his temperature dropped and plans for an operation were held in abeyance, his condition was aggravated this morning. A morning bulletin did not mention the temperature. His temperature was given as 101.5 F. last night.

LABOR BALLOTS COUNTED TODAY

Results of Bargaining Election Tallied By Officials.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Ballots cast in a national labor relations board election in six cities where the American Ship Building company has yards, were to be counted today at the NLRB regional offices here, said Hugh Sperry, regional director of the NLRB.

Ballots were brought here from company yards at East Chicago, Superior, Wis., Buffalo, Toledo, Lorain and Cleveland.

The vote, participated in by approximately 2,400 workers, was to decide whether they wanted collective bargaining representation by the CIO United Maritime Workers Union, by AFL unions, or by neither.

Shades Of Air Races Return To Cleveland With Air Circus.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Shades of the national air races returned to Cleveland today as renowned flying stunt artists opened an air circus at North Randall race track under the sponsorship of a committee for united China relief and the British war relief society.

Among the entertainers were Bob Ripley, Larry Adler, harmonica artist, and Li Ling-Ai, Chinese singer, dancer and airplane pilot, and the first woman passenger to fly the pacific.

Fair Weather In Store for Labor Day Vacationers

Changing his earlier prediction of rain, the weatherman today promised fair skies and warmer temperatures for the Labor Day week-end vacationers.

Already much warmer today, the weather will continue to become warmer tonight and Sunday. There may be scattered showers Sunday afternoon in some sections, the forecast said.

Hundreds of Mansfielders are expected to take advantage of the last holiday of the summer season to go to resorts on Lake Erie and other amusement places nearby for the week-end.

The weather was like summer today for the first time since early in the week. Lowest reading this morning was 58 and at noon the temperature was up to 81. The average for the past 24 hours was 71 for a three-above-average reading.

Haiti Forcefully Rejects Protest on Blacklist.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— A German protest against Haiti's acceptance of the United States blacklist of Axis firms in Latin America has been "forcefully rejected," the Haitian legation said today.

It added that its government had "in effect rebuked" the German charge d'affairs at Port Au Prince, Haitian capital, for lodging the protest which, it said, threatened post-war reprisals if Haiti accepted the U. S. "infringement" — the blacklist.

The legation said it had learned of the incident on receiving copies of an exchange of correspondence between Walter Kaempfe, the German charge d'affairs, and Haitian Foreign Minister Charles Fombrun.

NELSON PLANS BUFFER BUREAU

New Agency To Ease Shock of War Impact Upon U. S. Industry.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Donald M. Nelson, executive officer of President Roosevelt's super seven-man defense board, today made plans to create a new government bureau to ease the shock of the war impact on U. S. industry while he tries to step up arms output to a rate of more than $3,600,000,000-a-year.

The new agency is to be known as the bureau of Conservation, Reclamation, Standardization, Simplification and Substitutes — CRSSS. Nelson, who also is director of the priorities division of OPM, is to combine the conservation unit of OPM, the standardization unit of OPACS, and the division of simplified practice of the bureau of standards, the latter an agency which dates back to the first World war.

Also to be merged into the new division is the army-navy conservation branch which has been keeping tab on military purchases so that the armed

PRESIDENT SETS 'RETAIL WEEK'

Stores To Aid In Sale Of U. S. Defense Savings Stamps.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today proclaimed the week of Sept. 15-20 as "retailers-for-defense week to aid in the sale of defense savings stamps."

The presidential proclamation said that national trade associations representing more than one million retail stores have pledged support of their members in assisting the treasury department to sell defense savings stamps, and have agreed to make an intensive effort to acquaint the shopping public with the advantages of buying defense savings stamps.

Charges Britain Will Turn Against U. S. If 'Expedient'

(By United Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Charles A. Lindbergh, speaking in a baseball park because the city council would not let him use Municipal auditorium, said last night that Britain may turn against the United States, "as she has turned against France and Finland."

"She will turn against us if it becomes expedient to her welfare in the future," he told an America First committee rally which 8,000 persons attended.

More than 100 peace officers circulated through the crowd at the request of the local America First committee which said it feared an "embarrassing incident."

Lindbergh invited those who "question my words" to read the history of United States-British relations for the last 150 years, and re-read "the pledges of everlasting loyalty that took place between England and France less than two years ago.

"If you will do this, I believe you will agree with me that we must depend upon ourselves and ourselves only for security in the future," he said.

He said he had been convinced that Britain and France could not defeat Germany and "the dominant position in Europe has shifted from England as a sea power to Germany as a land and air force."

Germany in Europe and the United States in the western hemisphere are the two great "natural" air powers in the world, he said.

Far East Sure Nations Agree; Viipuri Taken

Nazis, Finns Claim Capture of Former Finnish City as Russians Launch Heavy Counter Thrust to Halt Drive Against Leningrad.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (INS) — The Finnish newspaper Savo, quoted in a Reuters (British) dispatch from Stockholm, today reported that military operations, so far as Finland is concerned, may terminate shortly with the ousting of the Russians from old Finnish territory.

BULLETIN

ROME—(UP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini decided at their eastern front meeting to push the invasion of Russia only as far as the Ural mountains, Virginio Gayda reported today in the Giornale D'Italia.

(By United Press)

A basic understanding between Japan and the United States was persistently reported on the Far Eastern diplomatic front today and on the military front Axis armies driving toward Leningrad claimed the capture of the flame-scarred city of Viipuri.

Finnish and German armed forces battling along both sides of the Gulf of Finland approach to Leningrad were threatened from the south by a Red army counter attack.

But Helsinki said officially that the Viipuri "gateway" between Scandinavia and Russia had been captured after long and bitter fighting in which much of the ancient city was destroyed either by bombardment or by the the retiring Russians.

Flames were reported roaring in the heart of Tallinn and Baltic port, on the Estonian side of the gulf, as well as at Viipuri, which for centuries has been a frequent battlefield in the north and which Russia took from Finland in the 1939 war. Axis sources also reported that the fall of Hango, isolated Soviet naval base on the southwest Finnish coast, was expected soon.

A German recapitulation of the heavy land, sea and air fighting along the Gulf of Finland claimed the sinking of 60 Russian vessels, including 43 transports and 17 warships. The Germans also claimed to have damaged another 54 Russian ships, including 47 transports and seven warships.

Although the Luftwaffe continued heavy assaults and the Russians reported heavy fighting all along the eastern front, the German encirclement of Leningrad seemed to be still virtually stalled by fierce Red army resistance around the city which yielded ground only at a high toll. Nazi claims that the Leningrad-Moscow railroad had been cut and that Germans were only 30 miles from the former czarist capital still lacked official confirmation at Berlin.

Elsewhere on the eastern front, the Red army was pressing its counter offensive in the Gomel area of the central sector and reported steady progress, which Germany's lack of news regarding Nazi trusts southeastward from

LAST DAY

Installment Buying Ends Today Under Ruling.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Today was the last business day for buying an automobile, trombone or washing machine on unrestricted installment payment terms.

Technically, the federal reserve board's restrictions on installment credit will go into effect Sunday midnight.

After then it will be illegal for any store, bank, finance company or other business to give easier installment terms than those outlined by the board on 24 consumer items and on cash loans under $1,000. Cash and regular charge accounts are not affected.

Guardsmen Return To City Tomorrow After Week's Work

With a week of rigorous field training behind them, members of Mansfield's Co. F of the Ohio State Guard will make their return from Camp Perry tomorrow arriving at the Baltimore and Ohio depot on a special train at 10:45 a. m.

Today was payday for the guardsmen and they accepted their checks with pride, for following an impromptu review, they were commended by three generals of the regular army.

On less than three hours notice, the Second and Third regiments passed in review before Maj. Gen. Clement A. Trott, commander of the Fifth U. S. Army Corps area; Col. Edgar A. Frey, U. S. Army officer in charge of National Guard officers; and Generals George Florence and Arthur W. Reynolds.

The Mansfield guardsmen participated in a week of firearm drill, maneuvers, and riot control. Capt. Glenn L. Bierly was in charge of the local unit.

General Trott told Brig. Gen. Whittier S. Bird, adjutant general of Ohio and commander of the state guard, that he was "highly impressed" by the guard.

WPA Makes Rail Salvage Job No. 1 on List for District

Salvaging of abandoned street car rails in Mansfield and other central-Ohio cities for scrap iron to be used for national defense was ticketed today by J. L. Kelly, central district WPA supervisor, as a No. 1 WPA job.

Kelly announced that Mansfield had 1,930 tons of abandoned steel rails still buried in its streets, the second largest part of the 7,200 tons left in 15 central Ohio cities. Newark is first with 2,350 tons.

First priority in the WPA program has been awarded rail removal, according to Kelly, by government request.

"If necessary, we will take workers from other projects to take up these rails," he added. "The government has designated this project as the number one job of the WPA."

Mansfield has already applied to Kelly's agency for aid in the track removal. Mayor William J. Locke who wrote the WPA office previously said yesterday that he would follow up with another request.

Kelly said special assistance by the WPA will be provided only where written assurance is furnished by the sponsors that the salvaged rails will be shipped to a steel mill or assembly point designated by the Office of Production Management.

Tonnage of abandoned street car rails on other centrally located cities include: Bellefontaine, 317 tons; Chillicothe, 150; Circleville, 43; Columbus, 700; Delaware, 428; Galion, 412; Kenton, 295; London, 190; Richwood, 72; West Jefferson, 150; West Liberty, 72; Mt. Vernon, 53; and Xenia, 38.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — We now have a transpertation tieup that threatens the east with a gasoline shortage and the west with a congestion of grain through elevators already crammed and a possible shortage of cars to move the crops.

The national transportation act, signed by the president on September 18, 1940, called for "a board of investigation and research" to advise on transportation policy. It said in part:

"It shall be the duty of the board to investigate the relative economy and fitness of carriers by railroad, motor carriers and water carriers for transportation service, or any particular classes or descriptions thereof, with the view of determining the service for which each type of carrier is especially fitted or unfitted; the methods by which each type can and should be developed so that there may be provided a national transportation system adequate to meet the needs of the commerce of the United States, of the postal service and of the national defense.

* * *

For about six months after the passage of this act nothing was done about this. Then the president nominated Nelson L. Smith, Charles West and Wayne Coy. Later when the senate seemed reluctant to confirm West and Coy the names of Robert Webb and C. E. Childe were substituted. Still no action.

I happened to help prepare the report of the national transportation committee of 1932 on the same, or a closely similar subject. It was not a statutory committee, but since this new and still-born board is only advisory that doesn't make very much real difference. But there was a very real difference, and it was this: That committee was composed of ex-President Calvin Coolidge, ex-presidential candidate Alfred E. Smith, Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, B. M. Baruch and Alexander Legge, former vice chairman of the war industries board and president of the International Harvester company.

Its studies were conducted in conscientious and exhaustive hearings by the committee and in a searching economic investigation by the Brookings institution.

The gentlemen suggested by the president are doubtless fine, able Americans, but, for a national advisory board's findings to carry authority and conviction, its members should be men of something approaching national stature and some greater distinction than local office-holding, kindness to their families and love of their mothers.

Why this provision of that statute has not been adequately carried out, I don't pretend to know, or even guess. It has been suggested to me that it is because the president doesn't desire any advisers reports just now on the St. Lawrence seaway and the Florida canal.

* * *

I have no menas of knowing or checking that. I don't even believe that the statutory provision for research and planning was broad enough. It doesn't include air and pipeline carriage. But it must be apparent to everybody that the greatest fault in our present war effort is head-long, unplanned, unexplored action.

The results of this are shortly going to be apparent in sharp national dissatisfaction which is already appearing, not only in this particular field of transportation, but in many other places. Some of these have not defined themselves, but they soon will do so. The darkness through lack of fact-gathering and study is so deep that the extent of these evils can't even be guessed. But it appears so great that I wouldn't like to be at the receiving coop when these chickens come home to roost.

Predicts 'Doubling Up' In Ohio Schools

HINT RECORDS BROKEN AT '41 COLUMBUS FAIR

Observers Point To Gain In Attendance, Revenue Despite Lack of Official Record.

COLUMBUS—Although no one would come right out and say so, there were definite signs today that the 91st annual state fair broke a record or two.

The $25,000,000 exposition closed last night, and Fair Manager Win H. Kinnan, glancing around a bit wistfully opined, "it's the best in my 32 years with the fair."

But neither he nor other officials would say definitely whether all-time records in attendance or money had been set. "We've got a bit of figuring to do first," Kinnan cautioned.

The unofficial paid attendance for the seven-day showing was 286,686, a gain of 26,146 over last year's official attendance. There was no report (even unofficial) on the amount of revenue taken in, but persons close to the exposition said reports from various sources indicated a profit would be in the tills.

For instance, the historical pageant "By Dawn's Early Light" played before crowds that paid a total of $25,385.40 in seven nights. This topped the previous grand stand show record of $25,125 set in 1931 by a circus. Last year's entertainment grossed $11,603.

Attendance at the horse show was above 5,000 and officials said they figured on a net of about $2,000 there. The harness races drew the biggest crowds in five years, according to W. J. Galvin of Wilmington, member of the state agriculture advisory board.

The Stony Ridge Farms of New Carlisle, captured major honors as Ohio mounts scored heavily in the final session of the horse show. Boss Hoss, a chestnut stallion from Stony Ridge, won the saddle horse futurity, and five others from the same stable took blue ribbons in other events.

The life of a sewer cleaner is not so monotonous as it sounds. Mansfield sewer workers find many unusual articles in cleaning sewers daily. Yesterday a sewer near Hedges and Second street yielded 35 cents in acid-eaten coins, while another on Fourth street near Wayne, gave out 82 cents, a set of false teeth and almost a dozen tea spoons.

While counting over money from the sale of Labor Day programs before he brought it down to CIO headquarters last night, Harry Gerhart found he was just exactly $100 short. He counted again. Still $100 short. His wife counted. Still $100 short. By this time Harry was exceedingly worried, wondering how he was going to explain the situation to his union brothers. Finally it turned out he had mistakenly figured that he collected $100 more than he was supposed to have received.

OFFICIAL SEES OVERCROWDING IN CLASSROOMS

Shift of Defense Workers To Certain Areas Causes Condition In State.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A state department of education spokesman indicated today that some doubling up may be necessary when Ohio's 1,200 students resume classes during the next 10 days.

"Some sections, particularly the Canton and Massillon areas, have been deluged with new defense workers," the spokesman said. "Since it would be impossible to expand school facilities in time to relieve the strain this year, it may be necessary to institute a stagger system of teaching with part of the pupils reporting in the morning and the others in the afternoon."

A steady enrollment decline in recent years was expected to benefit many larger cities, which have not been utilizing all available facilities and therefore are in a better position than rural areas to handle an influx of new students.

The spokesman declined to predict the possible effect of increased enrollment upon school foundation fund disbursements, but sources generally indicated that greater costs were anticipated. The foundation program has been expending approximately $49,000,000 a year to assure a minimum standard of education.

At the same time, a shortage of teachers caused school boards in many sections to revise regulations prohibiting the employment of married women. Northwestern counties reported the most acute shortage but the state department said there was no indication that closswork would have to be curtailed.

An official said a number of teachers had been granted one-year certificates for elementary work although they completed only two years of college training. Starting this fall teachers should have finished three collegiate years.

Estimates as to the possible enrollment increase due to the infiltration of defense workers and their families rose as high as 250,000, although some observers considered that figure excessive.

Offsetting the rise, it was pointed out, numbers of high school students would quit to take factory jobs.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

THERE was a time not so long ago—it seems like only yesterday, or at the very most, day before yesterday—when the presence of a movie queen would virtually electrify an entire room filled with the curious and the envious of Broadway or Park avenue.

Kilgallen

It wasn't a question of wealth, because often Mrs. Moneypenny would sulk forlorn and forgotten in her priceless chinchilla while Marlene Dietrich magnetized every male eye within seeing distance in something really quite cheap, like white fox.

It wasn't strictly a matter of beauty, either, because the most breath-taking Powers model could just as well have been a Powers elephant for all the gallantry she rated when an older (and maybe not nearly so attractive) film star hove into view.

* * *

Now the movie queens are getting a taste of the old medicine they used to dish out.

It all began, beyond question, the season Brenda Frazier started drawing "Oh's" and "Ah's" and "There she goes" to such an extent that Betty Grable or Dorothy Lamour of Joan Crawford, or whoever else happened to be in the same cafe at the same time felt almost totally ignored.

Brenda was the forerunner of a new era. Today a society queen or a real 18-karat heiress drips more glamor per square (or preferably, rounded) inch than all the film femmes put together.

Dispatches from Movieland still mention Hedy Lamarr, Olivia DeHavilland, and Garbo. I'll grant that. But the really sensational news in recent days concerned Barbara Hutton—didn't she practically push world events off the front pages when she and Cary Grant staged a rendezvous in Mexico?

And whose picture do you see coming out of Hollywood these days? Whose picture steals the play on the amusement pages, although she's never been closer to a stage than a front row seat on an opening night, or closer to the screen than a choice place at the Music Hall?

Why, young Gloria Vanderbilt, of course.

* * *

Apropos of all this, and illustrating the point further, is a little scene that occurred the other night in Jack Dempsey's choppery, a fabulous place where community singing—or anything else—goes, and everybody is much too busy to notice celebrities.

I know for a fact that Wendy Barrie has eaten there many times and has yet to give her first autograph to a patron. Jinx Falkenberg, that epitome of city glamor, would be the first to admit she even had trouble getting attention from a waiter on her last visit there. Dorothy Lamour was completely enthralled by the place because she went completely unnoticed in it.

It's a matter of record that the only autograph seeker the place sees regularly is Jack Dempsey himself, who collects celebrities' signatures for his two daughters, Joan and Barbara.

But the other night, the restaurant's reputation for indifference to beauty was tossed in the ashcan. A svelte blond with pale blue eyes and a smooth copper tan set the room on its ear. She came in wearing a blue dinner gown, wallpaper tight, and a mass of violently purple orchids, and a sable jacket hung on her shoulders the way Vassar girls wear sweaters.

* * *

Three young ladies who didn't know who the blond was—but felt she was impressive enough to be taken at face value—rushed over to get her autograph.

And who was she, this lass who shook a cynical bistro out of its doldrums toward dazzlers? She was Barbara Bannister, no movie queen, no stage star, just a girl with money.

SEES REQUEST FOR TAX CUT

Bittinger Predicts Bricker Will Call Special Meet on Election Eve.

COLUMBUS — Chairman J. Freer Bittinger of the Democratic state executive committee predicted today that Gov. John W. Bricker would call a special session of the legislature "on the eve of the 1942 election and propose, as though it was his original thought, that taxes should be reduced."

The governor will seek to fool and hoodwink the people in 1942 as he did in 1940 and 1938," Bittinger added.

"Democratic members of the general assembly did splendid work in attempting to secure a revision of the tax program," he said. "In this, however, they were blocked at every turn by majority groups of loyal, dormant Republicans who blindly followed the dictates of the governor.

"Is it true the governor did not want to reduce taxes during the time the legislature was in session or is there another reason for his refusal to act?" he asked. "Was he really afraid of the strangle hold his own state chairman, Mr. E. Schorr, had on the legislature?"

Bittinger said there was a "huge and ever-mounting un-needed surplus in the state treasury."

"If nothing is done to relieve the present condition the surplus by the close of 1942 will be far more than doubled its already excessive amount," Bittinger said. "Why should this be true when the state and nation confronts a national emergency — emergency which will tax every man, women and child to the utmost and which will call upon everyone to make a real sacrifice for national defense?"

DRIVE STARTS

U. S. O. Campaign For Funds Opens In Theaters Here.

Mansfield's five motion picture theaters today joined movie houses throughout the country in a week's drive for funds for the United Service organization.

Designated as U. S. O. week, the drive will replace annual N. V. A. week when funds were solicited for ill and disabled members of the theatrical profession.

Collections taken daily in local theaters will be sent to national headquarters and then allocated to the Richland county fund of $9,267, raised by campaign earlier in the season.

The co-operation of Ohio theaters in staging the drive is expected to take the state U. S. O. quota, $901,950 well past its goal, according to Harvey S. Firestone, jr., state chairman.

NEGRO ADMITS UNCONTROLLABLE DESIRE TO KILL DURING 'SPELLS'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Jarvis Roosevelt Catoe, 30, negro, confessed killer of seven women, said today that he had an uncontrollable desire to rape and murder and it was "a burning inside me."

"But it's all gone now," and I intend to make my peace with God."

JARVIS R. CATOE

He told the police he had "spells."

"I feel like that after reading detective stories about rape cases and looking at pictures of naked women," he said.

Washington officials planned to set legal machinery in motion on Tuesday to send Catoe to the electric chair. He accepted his fate calmly.

"I've got my life to live, but I'm glad it's off my mind," he said.

He will be arraigned Tuesday. The district attorney's office plans a trial as soon after an indictment is returned as is possible and hopes to have him sentenced to death within two weeks.

The exact number of Catoe's crimes was uncertain. He could not remember exactly how many he had choked and raped, but thought it was "about 10 or more." Police believed that he had committed at least 16 such crimes during the last 18 months—seven ending in the death of the victim.

All of Catoe's victims were negro women except three—Mrs. Evelyn D. Anderson of New York City; Betty Strieff, pretty war department clerk, of Des Moines, Ia.; Mrs. Rose Abramowitz, bride of a government lawyer.

Catoe was indicted yesterday by a New York grand jury for the murder of Mrs. Anderson.

Boys Saved After Being Buried In Cleveland Cave

CLEVELAND —(INS)— William Maxwell, 7, and John Winchell, 13, will have plenty to tell the kids when they return to school next week—mostly about the way they were buried alive under several tons of dirt when the cave they were digging yesterday into a hillside on the bank of the Cuyahoga river collapsed.

Two other boys ran to an engineering crew working nearby and reported the news. The engineers dug madly, uncovered Winchell first, who suffered only scratches.

A little later they dug up William. William, colored, wore a wide grin. "It felt like I was dreaming," he said. There was only a bump on his forehead.

FAR EAST SURE JAPAN AND U. S. REACH ACCORD

Gomel seemed to confirm. The Russians reported three important victories in which they said that six German divisions of perhaps 90,000 men had been defeated with heavy losses, but failed to give details of positions.

In one battle, near a Ukranian town designed as "K" and possibly indicating Kiev, the Germans were reported to have lost 15,000 men.

The negotiations between the United States and Japan for a relaxation of tension in the Pacific and the meeting at the eastern front of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini dominated the diplomatic scene, but produced no concrete developments.

In Tokyo, it was persistently reported that a basic understanding had been reached in what were described as efforts to solve the underlying causes of troubled relations with the United States, but official sources said that the reports were "probably premature."

This seemed to indicate more than ever that the Japanese were seeking an agreement but were still uncertain whether they could get together with Washington and London without surrendering the program for a greater sphere in East Asia.

The desire of the Japanese to arrange a settlement or at least a breathing space if possible was indicated, however, by the Tokyo reports and by a Tokyo radio broadcast, heard by CBS, saying that the American oil shipments to Vladivostrok were not important after all. Previously, the Japanese had strongly protested the shipments of war supplies to Russia and threatened to halt them.

On the other side of the picture, the British embassy in Tokyo seemed to be taking a less optimistic view, possibly in order to keep up the British-American pressure in the war of nerves with Japan. The embassy said arrangements were being made for a ship to evacuate some 1,300 Nationals from the Japanese empire and it was hinted that some Americans might also go on the British vessel.

President Roosevelt, in his Labor day speech, is generally expected to indicate the present state of the Pacific crisis.

The Mussolini-Hitler meeting and four of the eastern front was described by Fascist sources as a mapping of plans for offsetting any American-British deal with the Japanese, on whom the Axis had been counting to keep the United States busy in the Far East and thus reduce American aid to Britain.

A winter war in Russia and probably a new Axis drive against the Allied front in North Africa and the Near East were topics believed to have been discussed by the two dictators, who declared in an official statement that the Axis post-war plans called for all possible measures to maintain peace, remove the causes of war and strengthen the economic structure of Europe.

The chief purpose of the five-day conferences, was to offset the propconferences, was to offset the proping at sea of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and, with that in mind, the Axis press displayed reports of the eastern front sessions in preference to war developments.

Report Red Ships Escaped Tallinn

LONDON —(INS)— The London Daily Telegraph reported from Stockholm today that the majority of the Russian warships based at Tallinn and Baltic port escaped when German forces captured the two Estonian naval bases.

Most of the vessels succeeded in reaching the Soviet base at Kronstadt this account said, adding the vessels evacuated 50,000 men from Tallinn and Baltic port after docks and warehouses were blown up.

The dispatch said the evacuation was like the British withdrawal from Dunkirk—carried out while tanks fought in the streets and planes battled in the air.

According to the Telegraph, German losses in the final assault on Tallinn were estimated at 30,000 men.

Duce, Hitler Draft Plans for Winter

ROME —(U.P.)— Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler, at their eastern front conference, their most important of the war, drafted full plans for the winter especially in relation to possible United States action, in both the Far East and the Middle East, it was reported today in well informed quarters.

Relations between the United States and Japan were believed to have been one of the most important topics discussed.

The situation resulting from the Russo-British march into Iran was also discussed at length, it was understood.

Diplomatic quarters reported that the talk was based on the belief that Afghanistan might be Russia's next objective and on the possible effect on Turkey of the Iranian march. The question of Turkey's neutrality had now become more important than ever, it was said.

It was believed that Hitler and Mussolini, in discussing the winter campaign on the Russian front, planned to supply their forces in Russia with extensive cold weather equipment.

Intensification of fighting in North Africa with the arrival of cooler weather also was discussed, it was reported.

Mussolini was understood to have agreed to send more troops to the eastern front, both motorized divisions for attack purposes and policing forces for duty in occupied territory.

He was said also to have agreed to send more Italians to Germany, to work in factories and farms.

British, Reds Agree On Terms for Iran

LONDON —(U.P.)— Great Britain and Russia have agreed on terms for a settlement with Iran and will present them jointly at any hour, it was said authoritatively today.

It was understood that Britain would ask:

Occupation of strategic points in Iran.

Safeguarding of the Iranian oil fields and the supply line for Russian war materials from abroad.

Named to Key Posts In New Defense Set-Up

Vice President Wallace — Donald M. Nelson — William S. Knudsen — Harry L. Hopkins

Secretary of Navy Knox — Leon Henderson — Sidney Hillman — Secretary of War Stimson

Shakeups in all defense agencies of the United States are predicted following creation of a seven-man super defense board to shift the country from peacetime to war-time economy. Executive officer of the new board is Donald M. Nelson, who also was named by President Roosevelt as the director of priorities. Placed on the seven-man board were Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, William Knudsen, director general of OPM; Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director general; Leon Henderson, former chief of the abolished OPACS; Harry L. Hopkins, lease-lend administrator.

more thorough investigation of his connections in Marseille and other French towns.

It was disclosed today that a German firing squad—not French as previously reported—had executed eight men yesterday for espionage and activity against German occupation authorities.

Futhermore, the victims, including a French count and a Netherlander, had been sentenced by a German military court and not by the special French anti-Communist court, as first reported.

In one of the most sweeping measures of the drive against possible sources of the growing opposition to French collaboration with Germany, all Jews of the occupied territory were ordered today to turn over to police their radio receiving sets.

The danger of peritonitis setting in Laval's wound, which is only one-tenth of an inch below his heart, was believed to have been momentarily averted. Doctors said the danger would remain for at least 24 hours.

The eight men shot to death yesterday brought to 11 the total number executed since the attempt on Laval's life Wednesday.

Three of the eight, including Naval Lieutenant Count Henri Destienne Dorbes and a Dutch citizen named Jean Doornik, were executed for espionage. The other five were condemned under a new French law for activity against German occupation authorities.

ANGER FATAL

Tirade Against Hitler Blamed for Man's Heart Attack.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— A heated tirade against Adolf Hitler was blamed today for the heart attack which proved fatal to Joseph Siroky, 70.

Siroky, a Czech, gave vent to his feelings yesterday as he received a haircut in the barber shop of Joseph Bekesy. Suddenly he slumped in the barber chair. He was dead upon arrival at St. Alexis hospital.

Mansfielder Dies Day After Burial Rites of Brother

Just a day after his brother, Ralph, was buried in Greenwich, Harold Williams, 30, of 30 North Adams street died this morning at Willard Municipal hospital. He was admitted to the hospital yesterday noon.

A plater for the Dominion Electric company here, sickness had prevented his attending his brother's funeral. Friends said he came to the Willard hospital to be near friends or both himself and his wife who lived there before their marriage.

Surviving are his widow, Evelyn Phillips Williams; an infant son, James LeRoy; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Williams of Boughtonville.

Mr. Williams was a member of St. Sebastian's church in Bismark.

The body was taken to the Fink funeral home here pending funeral arrangements.

WIFE DODGES, MISSES BLAST

Mansfield Woman Escapes as Shotgun Discharges Through Window; Husband Jailed.

Kalbfleisch is out of the city. Municipal Court Clerk Ralph Hughes said bond on the charge was $2,500 but that no application had been made by noon.

After Chief Bates told her that Kozma would be prosecuted, Mrs. Kozma withdrew from his office and visited her husband in the jail. While leaving she was heard to remark that she would get a lawyer to defend him. Kozma is employed as a timekeeper at the Ohio Brass company.

Mrs. Kozma could not be reached for a statement and police refused to divulge the reason for the family argument. Following the shooting, she fled to the home of a neighbor, returning after police arrived.

Police said Kozma was at home upon their arrival and told them he had shot at his wife but believed he had missed her "because she was still running."

Besides the shotgun, police confiscated a rifle, a pistol and the torn window shade through which the shotgun blast passed.

Eden Says Reds, British Promise Help for Turkey

COVENTRY, England — (U.P.) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden disclosed today that Great Britain and Russia had promised to aid Turkey against any attack and called for vastly increased British and American war production as the "key to victory" in a world-wide conflict.

Predicting that the war would engulf the whole world, Eden told this bomb-wrecked factory city that still greater effort was essential to victory.

Eden said that Britain and Russia had pledged Turkey that they would scrupulously observe her territorial integrity and render her every aid in event she is attacked by any European power. German troops recently have been reported concentrated near the Turkish border of Bulgaria.

"The output of war material of the Allied and associated powers, including the contribution of the United States, still falls far short of our needs and those needs will grow until the war engulfs the world," Eden said.

Relatives said he left home early yesterday for Pennsylvania to spend the Labor day holiday. Officers said his motorcycle crashed broadside into a car driven by Joseph D. Richeson, Canton, at an intersection near the center of the city.

Surviving are the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levering; two brothers, Roger and Charles at home, and four grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Williams of Mt. Vernon; Homer Levering and Mrs. Eva Hess of Fredericktown.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at noon today, but it was expected the body would be returned today to Fredericktown for services and burial.

Warren Bloodhart, Crestline, R. D. 2, suffered a cracked pelvic bone and a bruised left foot last night when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by Richard M. Curry, 115 Blymyer avenue, near the Ohio theater on Park avenue west. Bloodhart told police that he was shifting gears and failed to see Curry.

Tomorrow will mark the 12th year that Rev. A. J. McCreary has filled the pulpit of the Mt. Calvary Baptist church. The church has invited visitors from other churches to a service honoring Rev. McCreary.

BUSES BACK

Ironton Gets Service After 4 Days of Hitch-Hiking.

IRONTON —(AP)— Bus service was restored today following settlement of a strike that gave the city "hitch-hiking" experience for four days.

An agreement providing increased wages, membership in a union if desired and an open shop was reached, said C. E. Fannin of Ashland, Ky., operator of the Blue Ribbon Bus Co. of Kentucky, after a midnight conference with Ironton drivers. Fannin recently purchased the Ironton line.

Eight of the local drivers belonging to the CIO Transport Workers' of America struck Tuesday demanding that their salary of $3.50 daily be increased to $4.75, which drivers of the Blue Ribbon line received.

Fannin said that demand was granted and that salaries of all drivers for both the Ironton and Blue Ribbon lines would be raised to $5.25 daily on Sept. 16, and six months thereafter to $5.75.

BRIDGE FALLS

Truck Plunges Into Creek, But Driver Escapes Serious Harm.

WINCHESTER—(U.P.)—A 40-foot covered bridge over Grace Run creek collapsed yesterday and plunged an oil truck driven by Roy Brown, 33, Chillicothe, down 20 feet into the creek below. The creek is two feet deep.

Brown escaped with a slight shoulder injury but the truck and bridge burned when oil exploded.

FDR, HOPKINS MEET TO TALK AID TO RUSSIA

Also Discuss Effect of Plan on Japan During Series of Conferences.

and friends. It was expected to be chiefly of local interest.

The tension of Japanese-United States relations may deter Mr. Roosevelt from any startling statement in the Monday speech. Secretary of State Cordell Hull indicated this tension yesterday by canceling his daily press conference.

The president, in response to a press conference inquiry and a request for comment on the approaching anniversary of the war, remarked pointedly that he is making a speech on the anniversary day.

His conferences over the week-end with Hopkins appeared certain to develop strategy. The president early next week will announce the full personnel of the United States mission to Moscow, at the head of which he already has placed his lend-lease "expeditor" W. Averell Harriman.

The decisions Mr. Roosevelt and Hopkins make may have direct impact on the Japanese-United States discussions. The major line of supply for United States war materials—chiefly aviation gasoline—now is through the Japanese islands to Vladivostok.

State Department Studies Proposals

WASHINGTON—(INS)—With the fate of the Far East seen hanging in the balance, the state department today studied a number of specific proposals contained in Japan's peace message to the United States.

Exact nature of the proposals made by Japanese Prime Minister Fumimaro Konoye in his personal message to President Roosevelt is a closely guarded secret, but the proposals are understood to be specific in character.

A report current in one diplomatic quarter indicated Japan is willing to make a small but important number of concessions to the United States in return for a considerably larger number of concessions by this country.

Concessions which Japan is considered likely to want from this country as the basis for a general understanding in the Pacific are believed to include the following:

1. Resumption of trade relations between the two countries;

2. Relaxation of the American freezing order against Japanese assets in this country;

3. Abandonment of the policy of encirclement of Japan by the so-called ABCD powers — America, Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies;

4. A definite limit on the extent of American aid to China and to Soviet Russia via Vladivostok.

In return for these concessions, it is believed Japan is willing to give assurances she will not attack American, British or Dutch interests in the southern Pacific.

The nature of Prince Konoye's message to President Roosevelt, and the willingness of this government to talk things over with Japan, is understood to be causing grave concern to some other members of the ABCD united front in the Pacific.

There is reason to believe that one of the powers concerned already has served informal notice on the American government that any appeasement of Japan at this time is likely to cause a collapse of the united front.

Harriman To Go To London First

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Averell Harriman, who will head the United States war-aid mission to Soviet Russia, will leave shortly for London for preliminary conferences with British leaders, his associates said today.

They said he may leave from Washington within the next 24 hours. There was no confirmation of this, however, from official sources.

The remainder of the American delegation, which is expected to number six, will follow Harriman to London within the next few weeks, it was understood. From there, they are expected to fly to Moscow over the same secret route traversed several weeks ago by Harry L. Hopkins.

Personnel of the mission was a closely guarded secret. One associate of Harriman said he understood that Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, chief of army ordnance, would be one of the members. The Russians have informed American officials that they would need large quantities of ordnance materials. Among other items wanted by the Red army, it was said, are light and heavy artillery, anti-tank guns, and ammunition.

TWO SENTENCED

Parents Ordered To Penitentiary For Neglecting Children.

ELYRIA —(INS)— Frank Saley, 25, and his wife Pauline, 22, today were under sentence of a year in prison for neglect of their two children.

Both grandmothers of the children testified before Juvenile Judge H. H. Nye, who passed sentence, that the children were neglected and that the parents spent their time and money in liquor places.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and check up on light bulbs if you plan to drive after dark.

It's being said that there may soon be a shortage of zippers for civilian use—and what a hardship it will be to revert to old-fashioned buttons.

One of those "men-only" magazines offers hints on "How to drink freely, yet remain sober"—but, in these modern times, why should such information be withheld from the lady souses?

Soldiers Get 'Bundles From Home'

AS A VARIATION of the "Bundles for Britain" idea, the city of Cleveland has been making a big to-do over setting aside a "Bundles From Home" day, on which people were asked to send packages to friends or relatives in military service.

This was a fine way to make all citizens conscious of the need for fun, greetings and home affection felt by all the soldiers. Smaller communities could well do something like this with less fanfare.

Postoffice and express officials might find it easier if the packages were scattered over a month. There are other difficulties. Chocolate cake, for instance. If all the soldiers from a given district got cake the same day, by the third day what's left might be a drug on the market. But if today's chocolate cake to one soldier is followed by a spice cake two days later to a second, then a batch of cookies to a third, and the fourth gets a whole block of cigarets, anyone can see that life in that group is going to be quite cheerful for a while. Fresh playing cards are welcomed. Game boards, too. Even chess. Books and magazines are always in demand.

Stamps and stationery go fast when a lad's away from home. Before long the franking privilege may be given the men in training. Until then, if you want letters, send your soldiers stamps!

Here's a slogan: Send a Soldier Something In September.

North Main Bridge To Cost More

PROSPECT of further delay in replacing the North Main street bridge over Touby's Run is not pleasant to contemplate.

This has already served too long as an example of ineptitude in public service and the fact that present estimates of costs are much higher than at the time the bridge should have been built can scarcely be accepted as reasonable cause to allow the present bottleneck of an important traffic artery to remain for another year or two—when costs may be even higher.

It has been assumed, of course, that plans for the new bridge contemplated a "permanent" structure, designed to meet future as well as present needs, and it is surprising to learn that a less substantial bridge was proposed under the original cost estimate made by WPA authorities, as stated yesterday by Division Engineer Grimes, of the state highway department.

Former King Makes Good

EDWARD, Duke of Windsor, pushed from his throne and shunted into a little job at Nassau, in the Bahamas, seems to have made good. As governor of that British colony, he is not bound hand and foot by red tape, as he was in London when nominal head of the British empire. He can govern and originate policies and has taken full advantage of his authority.

He is credited now with having brought prosperity to a colony of 70,000 people which was in danger of dwindling into poverty and futility. He kept the passenger ships running to Nassau until their losses turned to gains. He saved Nassau as a winter capital for travel and fashion in the West Indies. He brought prosperity to the hotels and insisted on a square deal for the common people. The duchess held up her end as social leader and friend of the poor.

This record naturally raises the question, how different the former king's history might have been if he had been allowed a free hand in his first job.

High Cost of Tolerating Rats

RATS are said to be increasing in numbers in many American cities—and, thus far, no Pied Piper has turned up to pipe them into oblivion.

The rat is a filth-carrying animal. It spreads disease and increases the fire menace. It destroys a great deal of property and food. It is said that 3,000,000 rats in a city will do from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 worth of damage a year.

What can be done about them? The first thing, says a public official, is to deprive them of free meals. With a food supply entirely lacking rats will go elsewhere in search of it. Carelessness in handling garbage has brought an invasion of rats to many cities. Rubbish offers both food and shelter for rats and should not be allowed to collect in yards or vacant lots, basements, garages or private residences, or in public buildings.

Buildings should be rat-proofed. Drains should be covered with galvanized hardware cloth. Foundations should be checked regularly for breaks. Such measures will induce the rat population to move on and keep others from moving in.

Reduced Production, Increased Demand

UNDER ordinary conditions the substantial increase in retail sales in July, as compared with July 1940, would be highly gratifying.

Now, however, the shadow of impending inflation darkens the picture and fear is expressed that runaway buying, coupled with restricted production, will hasten the dangerous inflationary trend.

With present demand for consumer goods running considerably above the prescribed limits of non-defense production there appears to be urgent need for immediate action to fit the garment to the cloth.

Now that there's a 25-cent "outline" of Wells' Outline of History, all that is needed is a "digest" that can be read while "commercials" are breaking in on radio programs.

The Filipinos' desire for independence is something like that of a runaway boy who returns home when it starts to get dark.

Man About Manhattan

—By. GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We are going to have a lot of braves, squaws and chiefs puttering around in the theater this winter . . . At any rate an Inca Indian, who says his full title is His Supreme Highness Prince Cante Waste, has opened an office on 5th avenue with the intention of producing a vast Indian musical extravaganza. He'll use several hundred Indians recruited from government reservations. If the Prince Cante Waste it on Broadway, he'll be a very paradoxical young man.

T. Dorsey is back on his Jersey farm after his adventures in Johns Hopkins hospital, in Baltimore, where he parted with his tonsils. That was a lively session he had with the doctors. His room was outfitted with radios and a recording device, and he occupied his free moments making all sorts of nonsensical recordings. Then, too, there were the telegrams and the telephone calls to be answered. One of the Broadway writers made a little slip in calculations and announced that Dorsey had been on the operating table "12½ hours." . . . The calls from everywhere literally poured in.

Tommy also figured in a little impromptu adventure in the Astor lobby some time ago, absolutely unprogrammed. He has a bad ankle. Suddenly it gave way under him and he collapsed . . . Somebody yelled "Get a Doctor." . . . A guest who had just walked in yelled, "All right, tell me who to call . . . I'll call him." . . . The guest, it turned out, was none other than old Dr. Kildare himself—Lew Ayres.

* * *

THIS happened during a rehearsal of the Rudy Vallee program . . . Dick Mack, who is the producer, yelled to his sec'y: "Say, have you got John Barrymore's telephone number?"

"Yes," she said.

"Then give it to Mr. Barrymore. He wants to call his home."

Morton Gould has just composed a concerto for "Tap Dancing" for Paul Draper, who will introduce it at Carnegie Hall this fall . . . It always startles me when I remember that Dorothy Lamour used to operate an elevator in a Chicago department store . . . By the time you are reading this I'll be sail fishing in Florida, I hope . . . Most of the producers are crying about the shortage of pretty girls . . . Their complain is that the model agencies have them all under contract — a situation this column intends to explore. . . .

* * *

Mischa Auer, the actor (or ektor as we say on Broadway) can't talk unless he is sitting on something high. It seems impossible for him to sink into a chair and indulge in conversation . . . He has to be perched on a table, or a piano . . . I've see any number of private photographs of Auer, being interviewed, and always he is six or eight feet off the rug.

Looking Back

Timely Editorial

Dressing For School.

Excellent advice to doting and misguided mothers who send their children to school dressed in bizarre, outlandish and freakish costumes because they "look cute" is given by Dr. Ira S. Wile, New York psychiatrist. He warns them against this cruel practice to save these children from being made the target of ridicule and persecution which eventually will turn them into unhappy introverts.

Immeasurable suffering and many spoiled lives have resulted because mothers have failed to recognize these facts. Children are cruel and merciless little savages at times in their thoughtless ways. On the other hand they are extremely sensitive to ridicule or criticism. It is well for mothers to bear in mind if a child objects to wearing some particular garment to school, he or she probably has a good reason. — Ohio State Journal.

SOME WILL NOT RETURN

Fear Dictatorship at War's End

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

CONGRESSIONAL opposition to President Roosevelt's foreign policies isn't, in reality, very much objection to his foreign policies, so long as they stay foreign.

A few spokesmen, like Senator Burton K. Wheeler and Gerald P. Nye object to them even foreignly speaking, on the ground that their tendency is strongly warward, which they don't like. In general, however, the critics say they find little fault with the administration's shaping of our international relationships, as such. What they suspect, they explain, is that F.D.R. is acquiring, in connection with purported emergency necessities, an executive control over our domestic government, which they think the White House will be unwilling to surrender after the world emergency has passed.

Chairman Joseph W. Martin of the Republican national committee put it plainly the other day when he warned the country that he's fearful of a "post-war dictatorship."

It isn't altogether that anti-dictatorial alarmists are averse to a temporary surrender of considerable legislative authority to the government's executive branch, in the face of a crises, with quick decisions almost imperative. What scares 'em is the personality of the particular chief executive to whom they're asked to make the surrender to, right now.

Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott clearly expressed this idea recently in the course of a cross-questioning of National Price Fixer Leon Henderson, as a witness before the representatives' banking committee.

It May Be Different.

Jesse's thesis was that the business regulations desired by the administration, and advocated by Leon, threaten the permanent destruction of American "free enterprise." Answered Leon, "Similar regulations, adopted during the last World war, didn't destroy free enterprise. It subsequently was restored and we've had it ever since."

"Ah," said Jesse, "but there's a vast difference. In 1917 we were confident that the emergency powers then voted to Woodrow Wilson would be returned to the people at the emergency's end. But this time?"

Congressman Wolcott's implication was obvious; President Wilson was a trusted Democrat, depended on not to WANT to be a dictator any longer than it was necessary for him to be one, whereas Jesse, at least doesn't feel so sure of F. D. R., or not sure at all.

I'm far from arguing that these inuendos are justified. All I do is to mention 'em, in explanation of some of the voting that's being done on Capitol Hill. There unquestionably are lawmakers who vote "no" on issues on which they'd vote "aye" if they weren't skeptical of the administration's intentions later on. I'm sure of it because they tell me so.

Congressman Joe Martin, previously referred to, as Republican leader in the house of representatives, as well as national committee chairman, has just appointed a G. O. P. minority congressional committee to determine, if it can, the shape that American "small business" will find itself in at the war's end. He thinks it's liable to be completely absorbed, as individual little units, by emergency governmentalization. Joe does not speak so much of wee retailers, as of small caliber industries, employing up to, but not above, 200 hands apiece.

All these activities forecast a queer kind of a post-war and post-emergency political realignment.

Which Comes First?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WROTE an article about Union workers who are holding up the Defense Program through strikes. There was no prejudice in that article. I'm Union bred. Bill Green and John Lewis are both friends of mine. But so's Uncle Sam. And I wondered.

So I printed a fan's protest against such carryings-on at a time like this. Just one protest out of hundreds. Whereupon, back came several hundred yelps. Interested in getting the real low-down on how your country feels today on this subject? Then cast your eye on this one from J. E. W., Union Man of Kansas City.

"I'm surprised at you, Elsie," says he. "I have read your stuff for years and mostly admired it. But when I heard you lambast those West Coast strikers, after you had admitted that you were brought up on union principles yourself, I certainly saw red. Why shouldn't a worker strike for a fair deal, at last, if the chance comes along? Haven't the capitalistic employers been grabbing their slice off our drudgery all these years?

"BAWL ME OUT IF YOU WANT . . . BUT I'M FOR GETTING ALL I CAN WHILE THE GETTING'S GOOD! I suppose you people who want us to jump into war will say I'm a tramp for writing this, but I, at least, am honest."

J. E. W., Kansas City.

And I have as great a loathing of war as you could possibly have. But I'm not going to bawl you out, J. E. W. I'm just wondering where you'd be today if the men and women who built America by their sacrifices had followed your same principles! Here's one of that old breed, speaking for herself. Folks, meet Mrs. Harriet Low, "Homesteadin' somewhere near Albuquerque."

"It takes us several weeks to get your articles out here," says she, "but we sure think they are worth it, Elsie. There are about eleven families who wait their turn, and we are all for you. Of course we don't always agree with what you say, but we feel you give us the best bird's-eye view of the country that's printed. And that's what we need nowadays.

"A lot of us held a real indignation meeting the other night, after you wrote about those slackers who are holding up the defense program. I have nothing against the unions. My dead husband belonged. But as I see it, these young sprouts are going against their unions' orders and fighting for their own selfish interests. Suppose the rest of us did that? Can the soldiers strike . . . or the marines . . . or the policemen . . . or the housewives and nurses? They are all defending this country in its emergency as much as those mechanics. . . . but they are doing it in the old American spirit. THE MAN WHO WILL TAKE ADVANTAGE OF HIS COUNTRY IN HER EMERGENCY IS AS MUCH A TRAITOR AS ANY FOREIGN SPY."

Then this, from "An Ironworker" who inherited his Union membership as a sacred obligation. Says he:

"Joining a Union, to me, didn't just mean taking a vow and paying some dues. It was something my father had preached into us, as part of 'paying for the American Way of Life.' And I sure have been proud to carry on since he left.

But I get sick when I see groups of empty-headed young agitators walking out on their mother country when she is in a jam. They whine about their sacrifices, but how about the sacrifices their fathers made in the days when there were no such opportunities as they now enjoy?

"I came up the hard way. But thank God I was taught loyalty to the country which gave me my chance. We complain about the 'isms' of Europe. But there's one 'ism' we should all defend . . . American patriotism! And there's one union that leads them all . . . The union of these United States! God bless them both . . . and here's my curse on the slackers who desert either of them in their hour of need!"

AN IRONWORKER.

Unrest Grows In Seized Nations, Mass Executions Follow Sabotage

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THOUGH Adolf Hitler's army has occupied ten countries in the war two years old this Monday, many still are not smooth-working cogs in his New Order. As if to remind him of this, subjects caused an epidemic of defiant disorders to spread over the continent of Europe as the anniversary approached.

The following is a brief roundup of conditions in several occupied lands on the basis of news reports of the past several months:

Occupied France—For almost a full year after the capture of Paris, many Frenchmen here were resigned to playing good losers and reportedly handed over many billions of francs' worth of their wealth. Lately, as Germans acknowledge, their land has been seething.

Paris police rounded up more than 10,000 of what they called Communists, Jews and Free French sympathizers in 10 days. Then a German colonel reportedly was stabbed to death in a Paris subway. Thereupon German officials placed in pawn the lives of Frenchmen under arrest in Occupied France (perhaps 150,000) by considering them hostages. In case of new hostilities a number would be shot.

Next day, terrorists in a suburb stretched a cable across a street at night and wrecked an auto full of Germans.

Sabotage of railways in the Paris area became so serious that civilian watchmen on guard were told that they would pay with their lives for any sabotage in their sectors.

Then on Wednesday ex-Premier Pierre Laval and Marcel "Why Die For Danzig?" Deat, leading pro-Germans, were hit by shots fired by a "Free French" youth masquerading as a volunteer against Russia.

The Netherlands — Germany is reported to have requisitioned virtually all of Holland's gold; and compulsory labor service has been decreed for both men and women.

After nearly a score of Hollanders were condemned to death by Germans for sabotage, Nazis warned the Dutch to curb their thoughts and stop cheering captured RAF men. During the past week Germans decreed harsh new measures against the 120,000 Jews in Holland.

Norway — As Norwegians have been drafted to work on farms and in forests, their raiding parties have destroyed herring oil factories producing for Germany and their journalists reportedly have circulated an anti-Nazi newspaper in all parts of Norway. All the provincial governors have resigned.

Rumania—Unrest seems to be particularly acute here. The troops of Chief of State Antonescu are helping the Nazis drive into the Ukraine. Dismayed by heavy losses, and reluctant to go beyond Bessarabia, which they have recaptured from Russia, the Rumanian soldiers are reported balky. Germany reportedly is threatening to give to Hungary even more of Rumania's Transylvania if the Rumanians don't keep fighting.

During the week Antonescu ordered that 20 Jewish and five non-Jewish Communists be shot for every act of sabotage attributed to Reds.

Bulgaria — This nation joined with Germans in attacking neighboring Yugoslavia and Greece and received chunks of those lands as reward. Nonetheless pro-Russian elements have been causing authorities considerable grief. Mass arrests have been made. Budapest heard of a "catastrophic explosion" in Bulgaria. Three attempts reportedly were made to assassinate King Boris. Turks heard that German ships in Bulgarian harbors were sabotaged.

Yugoslavia — Following her defeat, Yugoslavia was divided as spoils of war between Germany, Italy, Hungary and Bulgaria. But her residents—especially the Serbs—keep heckling the conquerors. In the past six weeks there have been seven separate news reports of executions of troublesome Yugoslavs.

Belgium—This is probably the hungriest of the many hungry nations. There have been violent anti-German demonstrations. To "guarantee the maintenance of order," the German commander decreed dissolution of all Free Mason lodges and similar groups during the week.

Greece — Mountaineers in the German-conquered isle of Crete were reported sheltering British empire forces marooned there last spring and helping them stage guerilla raids on the Germans.

Poland—Despite reported mass executions, there is a report that 140 secret publications were being issued.

Quotes

Joseph E. Davies, former U. S. ambassador to Russia and Belgium, cautions those who would talk peace terms with Hitler: "You cannot make peace with an evil thing that does not talk your language. A contract is no better than the man behind it."

Milo J. Warner, national commander of the American Legion, asserts that the Legion is adhering to its anti-Communist stand: "Whatever aid Stalin can give in resisting Hitlerism is incidentally of benefit to sincere peoples everywhere — but that does not call for a change in attitude toward the Communist party in the United States."

One-Minute Test.

1. What is a "common carrier"?
2. Are artichokes newly discovered or old vegetables in the United States?
3. What is ghee?

Words of Wisdom.

A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market.—Lamb.

Hints on Etiquette.

Don't be rude and complaining to the waiters, especially if you have a guest. It shows ill-breeding, not superiority. Complain to the restaurant or hotel manager if you have a legitimate grievance.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. A railroad or steamship, bus or airplane company which carries or transports passengers or goods for hire.
2. Old Thomas Jefferson mentioned them among vegetables common in Washington markets when he was president.
3. A clarified butter made in India and other eastern countries. It is made from buffaloes' or cows' milk, put through a certain process, then in closed pots, in which it is said to keep for years.

In Short

Accused: The FBI, of using a wire-tapping device to spy on Harry Bridges, West Coast labor leader, by Bridges. Wire-tapping has been forbidden by federal law.

Slapped: Germany, when Mexico closed 15 German consulates in Mexico and when Haiti withdrew all privileges "for internal and international reasons" of German consuls.

Recommended: That the Social Security laws be liberalized to provide minimum old age pensions of $30 a month to all unemployed persons over 60, by a special senate committee.

Nominated: Solicitor General Francis Biddle—a direct descendant of Edmund Randolph, the first U. S. attorney general—as attorney general, by President Roosevelt. He will succeed Robert H. Jackson who recently was named to the Supreme court.

Daily Bible Thought

And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the Lord, to serve other gods.—Josh. 24:16.

Abroad

Russia's Rain.

Alternating rain and fog took command of most of the war front in Russia early in the week. The German high command again began announcing simply that "operations are continuing according to plan."

Rain bothers a blitzkrieg. Nazi writers began stressing the problems posed for army engineers by the Russian swamps, marshes and rain-softened forests.

In a month the rains will really start falling on the Russian plains. And after several weeks of rain it will begin snowing.

A German spokesman, while exuding confidence in the future, acknowledged that (1) "the contest is not yet decided," (2) the Reds are still throwing in fresh reserves. (3) "islands of opposition" still remain behind the German lines.

* * *

Canadians In England.

Among the defenders of the British Isles are about 100,000 lanky, restless Canadians. They volunteered to go to the British Isles because men in Canada's new conscript army cannot be sent abroad unless they ask to be sent. Since their arrival they have had no action. Meanwhile other empire troops (Anzacs, Indians, South Africans) have been fighting battles all over the Middle East.

* * *

Needled Nazis.

Solemnly, a German news announcer was describing German successes in Russia. As he paused for breath a mocking voice interrupted, said "fairy tales." After each pause there was a quip. The announcer speeded his delivery and at the end gasped "and that ends the news." the voice shouted: "But the lying will continue tomorrow."

The blushing Nazis—who are past masters at such radio capers as "jamming" an enemy's program—blamed the interruptions on Bolsheviks. Next day they had three glib, long-winded announcers on hand. And with their final words loud music began.

* * *

African Railroad.

Vichy Frenchmen have been bashful about publicizing the railroad which they are building from near Oran straight arcross the scorching Sahara to the Niger river and thence in the direction of Dakar.

At Home

7,000,000 New Taxpayers?

The senate finance committee voted to cut income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single persons. It was estimated this would increase government revenues by $300,000,000 a year.

The house has passed a bill increasing taxes $3,236,700,000. It eliminated a compulsory joint-return clause, and the senate group is trying to make up for the revenue thus lost.

Senator George (D-Ga.), chairman of the committee, said the cut in exemptions would add 7,000,000 persons to the tax rolls but that they would pay only one-sixth of the increase in revenue.

* * *

Quotas for Gas Stations.

On Labor day week-end it is America's custom to take to the open road. Despite the shortage of gasoline, the oil industry took steps to see that eastern motorists should enjoy the three-day holiday this year as in past years.

Daily quotas were set up for gas stations in the 16 eastern seaboard states and the District of Columbia, where the government has slashed deliveries 10%. That way dealers could calculate how much to allow each customer and would not run out by Monday. There were "gasless Sundays," the first since 1918, in some places last week-end.

President Roosevelt predicted the shortage would be relieved by spring because of new tankers and pipelines abuilding.

* * *

Navy's Turn.

In a move taut with suspense and punctuated with violence, the U. S. army took over operation of the strike-bound North American Aviation company plant at Inglewood, Calif., last June. Within a month the plant had been turned back to its owners.

During the week the navy had its turn at operating a plant. The president reluctantly ordered it to take charge of the U. S. Steel's subsidiary, the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company at Kearny, N. J., which was working on a half-billion dollars' worth of ships.

The plant had been closed 19 days. The CIO shipbuilding union struck after the company rejected the National Mediation Board's recommendation for a modified union shop.

Jobs for Draftees.

Selective Service officials disclosed that each local draft board would appoint a re-employment committeeman to see that returning soldiers get their jobs back or get new ones if the old ones are for some legal reason unavailable.

MANSFIELD SET TO APPLY FOR NEW RESERVOIR

Formal Application For U. S. Financial Aid Ready to Be Sent to PWA Officials.

Except for a few technicalities, Mansfield's application for Public Works Administration aid in building a new 6,000,000 water reservoir and to increase the city's water supply has been completed

Mayor William J Locke announced today that he had confererd with William K Adams, regional PWA auditor, who helped in filling out the city's application

The mayor said he hopes to get PWA funds to build the new reservoir adjacent to the present 6,000,000 reservoir in Woodland. Increase of the city's water supply, according to the mayor, is needed to handle the increasing demand of industry and the growing residentfal sections.

Locke and Service-Safety Director C M Crafton went to Detroit two weeks ago to confer with PWA heads on the possibility of Mansfield receiving a share of the $150,000,000 set aside to aid cities with defense work.

PWA heads however, told the city officials that this region alone had applied for $250,000,000 worth of aid and that cities like Sandusky, Warren and others with munitions plants were likely to get first consideration.

THEODORE FRANKS WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Golden Wedding Celebration to Take Place With Family Party This Week-End and Open House In Afternoon and Evening Wednesday.

THE golden wedding anniversary of a well-known Mansfield couple will be an occasion for family gatherings and the receiving of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Frank, 33 Sycamore street, over the week-end and on Wednesday of the coming week. Although Mr. and Mrs. Frank's anniversary date is not until Wednesday, Sept. 3, they will take the opportunity of a lengthy week-end to entertain relatives at their home.

Guests from nearby towns and Buffalo, N. Y., and Dayton will be present Sunday and Monday for an informal party. Twenty are expected for a dinner on Sunday at the home. On Wednesday open house will be held in celebration of the anniversary. They will receive their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock and from 7 to 9. Hostesses will be their daughters, Miss Henrietta Frank of this city and Mrs. Floyd Davis of Shiloh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank were married in Erie, Pa., in 1891 and came to Mansfield 47 years ago. Mr. Frank is general manager of the Buckeye Tempered Copper and Brass company. Mrs. Frank is affiliated with several social clubs and church organizations. Both are members of the First Presbyterian church.

* * *

CHURCH GROUP.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Phillips, 193 Buckingham street, entertained members of the Young People's class of the Church of God at their home Friday evening. Mrs. Phillips, president, conducted a short business session. The evening was spent playing games and contests with prizes being won by Miss Ruth Smith, Robert Hanes and Michael Phillips. Miss Elma Brown, R. D. 2, will entertain the class at her home Sept. 26.

* * *

DINNER DANCE.

Fifty couples enjoyed the first social gathering of the season for Westbrook Country club members when an informal dinner dance was held at the Fairway, near Galion, Friday evening. Tom Mowry and Dick Shaw arranged for the entertainment. Due to lack of a club house social activities for the members have been practically at a minimum. It is doubtful whether any other functions will take place during the remainder of the season.

* * *

REGULAR SESSION.

Lady Garfield Council, No. 24, D. of A., met in regular session Friday evening at the Eagles hall. Mrs. Essie Miller, councilor, was in charge of the meeting. Members of the degree team draped the charter in honor of the late Emma Hancock. Resolutions were read by Mrs. Alice Hunter. Mrs Sarah Case and her committee were in charge of the social hour. Committee chairmen gave reports during the business session. Mrs. Julia Grandstaff and her committee will be in charge of the meting Sept. 12.

Golf Scheduled For Monday at Westbrook Club

Announcement is being made that members of Westbrook Golf association will meet Labor Day at 1:30 o'clock to play two-ball foursomes. Men and women are to register at the locker house. This game has been the custom on the holiday for some time.

The annual handicap tournament for Westbrook women starts on Tuesday. Players have through the following Friday to play the first matches. Prizes for last Tuesday's play were won by Mrs. W. A. Springer, Mrs. Paul Cropper and Mrs. H. B. Soulen. Pairings for this week are:

First Flight.

Buckeyes Fete Leader on Birthday

Members of the Buckeyes, Girl Scout troop, feted their leader, Mrs. Paul James, Friday, at a birthday surprise party. The group is shown above, left to right, sitting, Verna Beth Graham, Marcella Grau, Alice Schmeurer, Ethel Moore and Mary Frick; standing, Eleanor Bond, Harriett Pate of Evansville, Ind., Mrs. Paul James, Mrs. Alvin Krieg, Gurtha Cole and Marjorie Hoover.

To Entertain Friends

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frank, 33 Sycamore street, who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this week-end with a family house party and with open house on Wednesday, the day of their anniversary.

Girl Scouts Honor Mrs. Paul James With Party

Mrs. Paul James, unit leader for the Buckeyes, Girl Scout day camp unit, was honored with a surprise party Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Ethel Moore, 407 Hammond avenue. Fourteen members of the Scout troop were in attendance and presented the honoree with a Girl Scout watch. Mrs. James came to Mansfield last spring from Evansville, Ind., where she had served as a scout leader. She will assume the duties of a local troop leader this fall.

The afternoon was spent socially and at a late hour refreshments were served. Mrs. Alvin Kreig, an assistant unit leader, was present, and also a guest, Miss Harriett Pate, who is visiting here from Evansville, at the James home. Miss Pate is office secretary at the Girl scout office there.

BUCKEYE CLUB.

Mrs. Charles Spreng was hostess for the regular meeting of the Buckeye Garden club held Friday at the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spreng, on the Marion avenue road. Mrs. Robert Frey presented the paper on "Autumn Planting." Luncheon was served buffet style at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Thornton Moore assisted the hostess. Mrs. Moore will entertain the club Sept. 12.

SOAP MAGIC

Mothers who are at their wit's end to persuade the youngsters to wash their hands will find a jolly method in a scheme worked out originally by a teacher with a similar problem. She offered to play "soap magic" with the pupils one day, and got them so interested that handwashing became a daily game instead of a matter of protest.

The way to play "soap magic" is for the mother to offer to make soap "disappear" while she washes her own hands. Dip the hands lightly into water, then rub soap over the hands until a lather forms. Put the soap aside, and keep rubbing the hands together. In a few minutes the soap will actually have disappeared and the hands will be dry. The mother can demonstrate this by shaking hands with the children Then she should offer to make the soap "come back by magic" This is done readily by putting a little water on the hands and rubbing them together. Children are usually thrilled and mystified at the procedure and take delight in making a similar demonstration on their own hands. Handwashing becomes fun—and that is as it should be.

GOES TO COLLEGE

NEW YORK —(AP)— New York University's School of Commerce is offering a course on laws of probability in games of chance. The study is of importance to economists, statisticians, social science workers and students of business, the institution believes. It will be made practical and of particular interest to younger students by basing research and experimentation on actual games.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 31.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather contradictory one. There are auguries for promotion, favors and endorsement from superiors and those in influential position, with prospects of worthwhile good fortune and expanded horizons, yet proclivities to make blunders, or foolish mistakes, may incite loss and defeat.

Those whose birthday it is may be given the opportunity to rise to good heights of success, advancement, good fortune and prosperity. Superiors and those in power may contribute to this.

A child born on this day should be resourceful, have keen energies and mentality, winning support of those in high places.

For Monday, September 1.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly active and eventful day with much stirring in business as well as in the personal life. There should be much encouragement for writings, publicity, travel, communications, and all youthful interests, but some precaution and vigilance are demanded in order to avoid dangers and pitfalls. In social, domestic and romance there may be much pleasure in spite of petty vexations or anxieties.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a successful and progressive year, especially if occupied by writings, publication, travel or in the more practical arts. But there may be dangers of deceits, jealousies, and erratic situations, to be manipulated with caution, alertness and sound judgment, thrift and good nature.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally talented, versatile, with energy, keen wit and good nature. It should also be artistic, with love of beauty and refinements of living.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD FOR MISS COX, BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. Charles Beard and Miss Sybil Scott Entertain Friday Evening for Emily Cox, Who Will Wed Robert Beard.

THE next two weeks will be busy ones for Miss Emily Cox, bride-elect of Robert Beard. Friends are feting the prominent young woman at many parties during that time. Last evening Mrs. Charles Beard, mother of Miss Cox's fiance, and Miss Sybil Scott, entertained at the Beard home, Chevy Chase road. Twelve guests were in attendance and spent the evening playing bridge.

High score awards were presented to Miss Cox and Mrs. John McCabe, an out-of-town guest present from Hattiesburg, Miss. The group surprised Miss Cox with a shower of bathroom gifts and the hostesses gave her a gift. At the close of the social period a luncheon was served buffet style from a table centered with a floral arrangement in yellow and white. Tall lighted tapers illuminated the scene. The hostesses gave their guests dainty favors of guest soap.

Continuing the list of nuptial honors for the bride-to-be will be the party at the Colonial Guest House Tuesday evening. Hostesses will be Mrs. McCabe, Mrs. William Mosey, Miss Mary Garver, Miss Rita Newcomer and Miss Betty Hamel.

On Wednesday Mrs. Bernard Mahoney will be hostess at her home on Marlow road, assisted by Mrs. Edward Fatkin and Mrs. Ned Brooks. The following evening Mrs. Edith Jolley, South Diamond street, will entertain. Mrs. Robert Oberlin of Orrville, a former Mansfielder, will be hostess for a party at her home on Tuesday, Sept. 9. Closing the events will be the affair given that week by Miss Mary Lou Hout and Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller. This will be a spinster dinner, the place and date to be announced later.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Miss Mae Gilkison Myers, who is leaving the city soon to make her home in Sandusky, where she has accepted a government position, was honored at a dinner party given Friday evening by members of the Prose and Poetry guild at the Evergreen's. Following the dinner the guild presented Miss Myers with a gift. She in turn presented the guild members with gifts. Regular meetings of the group will begin Sept. 19 when the organization is entertained at the home of Miss Maude Miller, 93 West Second street.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

Child Care and Training Committee of the Women of the Moose met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Virginia Schmunk, 89 Home avenue, chairman of the committee. Plans were made during the meeting to aid the aged dependants and helpless children the organization contacts. One guest, Miss Ruth Roesch, senior regent of the Women of the Moose, attended the meeting. Luncheon was served at the close of the session. Mrs. Schmunk will entertain the committee at her home Sept. 25.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I'M SURE he isn't," I told Mary. "You said the man in the restaurant was Redfield's exact double. The man on the train was not. He had a strong resemblance to Stephen, but that was all.

However, there is a strong possibility that they all belong to the same family, and that they are all mixed up in the mysterious disappearance of Marion.

"The strongest proof of that I have is that Redfield asked me the same question about Jack Bickett's whereabouts that Marion put to me. Yet neither of them knows Jack. However, they both put the same question, evidently prompted, about him. Why?"

"If I were Aunt Katherine," Mary said thoughtfully, ignoring my rhetorical query, "I'd begin to worry with a big W about my husband's safety. But—what can she do about it?"

Must Await Madge's Father.

"Just what we can do," I returned, "exactly nothing, until Father gets here. So here's au revoir for an hour. I'll lie down on the couch here."

"Nothing doing," Mary said determinedly. "You're simply dead, and you're going to have the more comfortable bed. Come along, now, before I have to carry you."

"How do you like being bossed?" she asked me mischievously, as she stooped and kissed me goodnight.

"Very much," I told her, returning her kiss. "For once, at least," I added meaningly.

"Oh, I'm not planning to draw Simon Legree's mantle over my shoulders very often," she retorted. "But I do want you to get a few minutes good sleep before Grandpa Spencer comes. Me? I'll be sawing wood before you can count fifty."

Madge's Father Arrives.

But I could not follow her example. Before my mind's eye was the paper I had taken from Mary, with its cabalistic characters, and for half an hour I turned and tossed, following my memories through tortuous channels, before sinking into a slumber so fitful, so disturbed by dreams, that the expected knock upon the door outside—the knock which I knew heralded my father's arrival — brought me bolt upright in an instant.

"Yes, I'm awake," I called. "Wait a second."

I stooped for my slippers and started for the front room, to meet Mary coming swiftly toward me.

"I'll camp in the bedroom," she said, "while you do the honors. Are we going to dress?"

"Indeed, no," I decided. "That would only delay matters. These negligees are perfectly all right, as long as we do not have to leave these rooms. Time to change then."

"Okay," she said. "I'll groom my hair a bit," and she departed for the bathroom, while I went to the outer door and spoke through it, mindful of my father's caution —never to open a door unless I recognized the voice outside.

Wants to Get at Work.

"Father?" I queried.

"Yes, my darling," his dear voice answered, "and Mr. Veritzen with me."

I threw the door open, and was in my father's arms. He drew me inside the door, and Philip Veritzen followed us in.

"Is Mary here?" my father asked when my welcoming kiss had been given and warmly returned.

"Yes, in the next room," I said.

"Ready to work?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Then please get her. I have the black note-book with me," he said crisply.

CHAPTER XVIII

Gay looked from Curt to Hill, her eyes worried. There was a painful silence, then Gay collected her wits and said nervously:

"I believe you two have met, haven't you?"

Curt nodded stiffly.

"Yes, we have."

Hill stared at the man who was in love with his ex-wife silently. Gay covered the awkward pause, saying quickly:

"Is there any more news, Curt?"

"April must have a blood transfusion," Curt lit a cigaret shakily. "My blood won't do. It's the wrong type. They're checking donors now.

Hill stood up swiftly; "Perhaps I'll do," he crushed out his cigaret in the tray beside him. "Where do I go to find out?"

Gay saw Curt De Witt swallow painfully. Then he drew himself up and said shortly:

"Come with me. Perhaps you will do. We'll see."

* * *

The drama of the scene she had just witnessed left Gay breathless. It was several minutes before she could collect herself sufficiently to join Pat and Cherry in the other reception room.

"Curt has taken Hill to see if his blood will do for a transfusion," Gay explained, sinking into a chair. "I guess we'll know soon."

Cherry laughed bitterly:

"That's irony for you. Hill's blood will probably be just the type."

Pat took Cherry's hand soothingly: "Well, let's hope so, honey. What do you care whose blood it is, if it works? Please don't row with Hill now."

Gay sighed, pushing back her red hair: "No, Cherry, you've got to be decent to Hill, no matter how you feel. It's childish to fight with him now. Hill's human. This is a terrible shock to him!"

Cherry sniffed: "He's probably just putting on an act. That dope hasn't got a heart. Don't tell me!"

Pat and Gay gave up trying to influence Cherry to be a little more charitable toward her brother-in-law. Her bitterness was too deeply ingrained.

It seemed a long time before they heard Curt's footsteps coming down the hall. Gay warned:

"No remarks about Hill before Curt, Cherry. He'll just think you're childish."

Curt's steps dragged wearily as he crossed the room and threw himself into a chair.

"Hillyer's blood is the right type," he lit a cigaret burning his finger because his hand was shaking.

"Fine," Pat nodded. "I'm glad they found someone."

"I think, Curt said then, "we should go across the street and have some breakfast. It's seven o'clock. It will probably pick us up. What do you say?"

Gay arose: "That's a very good idea. There's nothing we can do here."

* * *

She knew Curt De Witt had the feeling he must escape from the sombre walls of Channing hospital for a little while. The knowledge that the blood from Kent Hillyer's veins was giving new life at that moment to the woman he loved must be like a sword in his side.

Pat and Cherry followed Curt and Gay. Gay taking Curt's arm as they went down the hall to the elevator They left word at the fourteenth floor desk that they would return in a short while If Mr. Hillyer or anyone else should inquire for them, they were going to the restaurant directly across the street.

Over orange juice, toast and coffee, Gay suggested thoughtfully:

"Cherry, I think you should go home and make sure Kenny is taken care of properly. You know how excited poor old Hyacinthe gets when there is an emergency."

Pat agreed, "I think so too, honey. I'll take you home as soon as we're finished. You'll be a lot more use there than here."

Curt nodded: "That's the sensible thing to do, dear. The doctors say April will be unconscious for a long time. There is no reason at all why you should stay at the hospital. Gay can stay there, and you take charge at home. I'll telephone the office that you won't report till further notice."

Cherry's eyes filled: "I can't bear to leave Suppose—suppose she dies, and I'm not there. I—"

Gay said quickly: "Nothing like that is going to happen, Cherry. Not with all that is being done for April. You mustn't even think such a thing.

"April will get well," Curt said with conviction. "I'm sure of it."

When Pat had taken Cherry back to Douglaston and Gay and Curt were back in the reception room, Gay asked gravely:

"What chance do the doctors think April has, Curt? I want the truth."

Curt said hollowly: "They won't say, my dear. But blood transfusions will save her if anything will, Dr. Malcolm thinks. Dr. Halling should be here from Boston soon."

* * *

It was only a few minutes later that a white capped nurse came to the door to tell them that Dr. Malcolm wanted Mr. De Witt to know that Dr. Halling and his staff were upstairs, and that further word would be sent as soon as Halling had examined the patient. But that it would probably take some time.

Gay took Curt's hand holding it tightly for comfort when the nurse left them. After some moments had passed Curt said nervously:

"Do you mind if I go for a walk, Gay? Maybe you'd like to go with me. I can't make myself sit here any longer."

"I don't feel as though my knees would hold out for a walk," Gay tried to smile. "But you go ahead I'll be here when you come back. A little air will do you good."

* * *

When Curt had gone Gay lay down on the divan wearily, exhaustion numbing her body. She did not stir until Hill came in the door a few minutes later. Gay sat up, pushing her tousled hair.

Hill's broad shoulders drooped, and his usually colorful face was drab with strain and the loss of blood.

"I'm to wait here," he said, sinking into a chair, "They may need me again."

'Here," Gay got up. "Lie down awhile. You look tired."

But Hill shook his head: "No, thanks. I couldn't." Then he sighed "Now getting back to the conversation we were having when DeWitt arrived on the scene."

Gay said embarrassed: "I'm sorry we have to talk about it right now, Hill. After all you've just been through."

"Never mind that," Hill lit a cigaret. "God knows I owe April a great deal more than a little of my blood. If you think it will upset her to have me around the hospital when she comes to, I'll stay away. That's what you want, isn't it?"

"I—I don't know what to say now," Gay avoided his eyes. "But I do think I'm right, Hill. I feel so sure of it."

Hill ran his hand through his curly blond hair, and got up to walk the floor.

"Do you think I've stayed away from the house because I didn't have any feeling for my family?" he demanded. "Do you think that's why I haven't been around?"

"I—suppose not," Gay looked at him unhappily. "But it did seem that way to the rest of us. April has been heartbroken because you haven't seen Kenny but once in six months."

Hill sighed: "Oh, what's the use! I couldn't make you understand that it cut me all up into little pieces to feel I was just a visiting fireman around my own house. Sometimes a guy has to run away from things he can't face. You wouldn't understand that."

Gay said not unkindly: "No, you never were much good at facing reality, Hill. But I suppose we shouldn't hold that against you. If you haven't got what it takes, you just haven't got it. Things like that are born in people, I guess. I've never hated you for not growing up."

* * *

Hill threw himself into a large chair, his big athletic body overflowing its depths. But his handsome face was still boyish with a young charm that would have stirred the maternal instinct of any woman who sat facing him as Gay did.

In spite of the rugged, healthily tanned features of an athlete who spent most of his waking daylight hours in the out of doors, he had a boyish face. There was even a deep dimple in the cleft of his chin, and his blond hair fell in a curly cowlick over his brow.

Gay asked suddenly: "When are you going to be married to Dru, Hill?"

Hill stirred restlessly, "I don't know," he almost snapped at her. 'Our plans aren't set yet. When are April and DeWitt planning to be married?"

"They were going to announce the engagement," Gay said. "But I suppose the wedding will have to be put off awhile now."

Gay sighed heavily. There she sat in a hospital talking to Hill about April's marriage to someone else, and perhaps April at that very moment was dying upstairs. It seemed very cruel suddenly, like shooting a man in the back after he was lying face down on the sidewalk with another wound, Hill looked so completely crushed with misery.

* * *

Gay knew suddenly, intuitively, that Hill still loved April. That he had never stopped loving her for one moment. In his boyish face was such tragedy that she got up and crossed to him and sat on the arm of his chair and put his head on her shoulder.

"You poor darling," she said brokenly. "Oh, Hill I'm so sorry."

Hill turned his face, pressing it into her shoulder and she realized that he was crying. Sobs shook his body as she patted the top of his head wanting so desperately to comfort him.

Gay hoped that Curt DeWitt would not return and find Hill crying on her shoulder. She said after a little while:

"Someone should be here soon with a mesage. I'm sure it'll be good news."

It was only a moment later that a blue capped student nurse came to the door.

"There's a message from Dr. Halling," she said efficiently. "He says to tell Miss Lind's family it will be several hours before he can say definitely what her chances are. Everything possible is being done."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT THE REAL PURPOSE

Safety Plays can be silly things. The real purpose of them is to protect your contract and help assure that you make it, even at the expense of a trick or two over contract, which might have been scored if you had been willing to risk the entire contract. But when there is an alternative play which does not subject the contract to any risk at all, but only stands to gain for you if it works, you are out of the bounds of logic if you pass it up intentionally.

	♠ K J 10 8 2 ♥ J 5 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ Q 7 2
♠ A Q 9 ♥ K 10 7 3 ♦ Q 8 7 4 ♣ 5 4	W. N. E. S.	♠ 7 5 3 ♥ Q 9 8 6 4 2 ♦ K 5 ♣ 8 3
	♠ 6 4 ♥ A ♦ J 10 9 3 ♣ A K J 10 9 6

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♥
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣

West led his heart 3 to the Q and A. The declarer took in his top two trumps, then decided upon what he called a "safety play." Seeing that he must lose one trick, in spades, he decided that a safe way to avoid losing more than one other was to find West holding one of the two missing diamond honors. So he led the diamond J, West covering with the Q and the A winning. He led the diamond 2, then to the K. East fired back the heart 6, which South Ruffed. He took in the diamond 10 and 9, then led the spade 6, West playing the A and making it easy, as South now had no more losers.

Better play, after the heart A, club A and club K would have called for work on the spades. With the honors of that suit marked with West by his bid, he could have discarded his diamond losers on the ultimately set up spades. His best method would have been to lead toward the suit. If West played low, finesse the 10, then return to his hand and lead toward the suit again. By this means, he would have made an extra trick.

* * *

Your Week-End Lesson.

Should a sound match-point duplicate player ever try a play which will produce a trick above his contract if it works, but will cause the defeat of the contract if it fails? If so, what are the circumstances in which a declarer is justified in trying this? Can you set up a hand giving a clear-cut example of it?

Fults Drops 12-Foot Putt to Win Senior Golf Title

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Your Mansfield Braves with the collaboration of the Findlay Oilers attempted to pull a fast one last night. Whether it backfired or not is a question for Joe Donnelly, Ohio State league prexy, to decide.

Although Mansfield and Findlay had no postponed games on their second half schedule at Mansfield, and therefore no reason for a doubleheader, they went ahead and played a twin bill in the hope that the Braves would win both games and gain half a game on Fremont.

* * *

They had some slight excuse for the maneuver. A schedule sent to Manager Grover Hartley of Findlay by President Donnelly showed two games here last night. But a check-up of the records showed that all Mansfield-Findlay games here had been played to date, and not even the president of the loop can add an extra game.

However, the umpires weren't informed by Donnelly of any doubleheader so the schedule sent to Hartley seems to have been a slight slip-up.

* * *

Had the Braves won the second game, Donnelly could have done nothing but toss it out of the standings, whether or not Fremont protested. But they lost the second, and now we'll see what happens.

* * *

Mansfield fans have only one more chance to see the Braves in action this season, and that's in a legitimate double bill Sunday with Tiffin at the Fairground.

The Braves deserve a record crowd for this game in recognition of the valiant battle they've waged all season to stay up in the championship running in spite of an injury jinx that has plagued them all season.

* * *

With the exception of Fremont, which is well sold on its championship team, baseball experts in other Ohio State league cities are agreed that Mansfield had the best balanced club in the circuit, and that, but for the injuries that have kept the lineup in a juggled condition all season, the Braves would have walked off with both halves.

As it was, only a fighting spirit that wouldn't be downed, kept them in second place, where they finished in the first half, and where it looks like they'll finish in the second.

* * *

Yep, it looks like the Mansfield club will be two times the best man, but never the bridegroom.

Braves Gain on Fremont

Split In Questionable Twin Bill With Oilers.

MANSFIELD'S BRAVES broke even in a double header with the Findlay Oilers last night at the Fairground, winning the opener 10 to 4, and dropping the afterpiece 4 to 5, while the league-leading Fremont Green Sox were being bounced around by Lima 6 to 2.

Today the Braves are either two and a half or just two games behind the Sox, depending on whether the second game played by Mansfield last night counts in the standings. That's for Ohio State league President Joe Donnelly to decide.

* * *

It was an unscheduled game, and even if the Braves had won it shouldn't have counted.

* * *

Pat patterson took his sore arm out of retirement in the opener and coasted to an easy victory as his mates found their batting eyes in a 12-hit attack.

The Braves got away to a two run lead off Symsak in the first inning on Bobby TeStruth's single, a walk to Mangan, and Harry Siegbert's long double to center.

But Findlay tied it up in the second on George Ruley's triple, a walk to Pisani, and singles by Bowman and Symsak.

* * *

* * *

In the fifth Mutryn strolled and went to third on Siegbert's single to score on Salem's fly to center. Siegbert scored on a fielder's choice.

Doubles by Patterson and Ankrum, an error, and a single by Siegbert brought in three more runs in the sixth. Findlay got two unearned runs in the eighth when Mutryn dropped Steckschulte's fly in right.

The Braves lost their pinch punch in the second game, having men stranded on the paths in seven innings, three of them in the first inning.

* * *

They tossed the game away both in the field and on the base paths, and it was small comfort to Hurler Chuck Byers that in earned runs the Braves outscored the Oilers 3 to 2.

* * *

He may find some comfort in the fact that the game probably won't count, and that all records, including his 10 strikeouts, will be tossed out.

CHARLES MILL RESERVOIR CLOSED TO ANGLERS

Fishermen will have their last chance tomorrow to fish in Charles Mill reservoir north of U. S. Route 30.

At midnight Sept. 1 that portion of the lake in Ashland and Richland counties will be closed to anglers. The lake, opened since June 16 was ordered closed by the Ohio Conservation and Natural Resources commission. The order affects approximately 435 acres of fishing grounds.

OHIO HORSES SWEEP HARNESS RACING PROGRAM

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio horses captured all events on the closing program of the Ohio State Fair harness racing program.

Dr. Hugh M. Parshall of Urbana won the free-for-all pace with Fearless Peter, owned by Dr. L. M. Guillinger of Andover. J. B. Bonham of Cleves took the 2:21 pace with Mary Bonham, and Agnes Hanover of Walter Michaels' Bucyrus stables won the 2:18 trot.

Battle to 4-4 Deadlock

Supplies, Tappans Tie In Opening Play-Off Tilt.

The Athletic Supplies and Tappan's softball clubs battled to a 4-4 deadlock last night as they opened their Commercial league championship series at John's park.

Tappans stepped out to an early lead scoring two runs in the opening frame, another marker in the second and a final tally in the eighth.

* * *

The Supplies came to bat in the last of the eighth on the short end of a 4-1 score. A three run rally by the Supplies put the clincher on the battle tieing the score at four-all.

* * *

Tappans nicked Phitzenmayer's slants for seven bingles while the Supplies garnered five hits in the tilt. Bush, Weber and Burns divided the Supplies stick work, while Hamilton, Bogantz and Daugherty lead Tappan's batters.

Tappan's first half championship club defeated the Supplies in the opening lap of the league race 11-8 to take the crown. The Supplies in turn defeated Tappan's 5-3 in second half play and went on to win the title by defeating the Mansfield Tire club 12-9 for second half laurels.

M'Neill Seeded Third In Joust

Defending Champ Meets Pryor In Nationals.

NEW YORK — Donald McNeill, the lithe lad from Oklahoma City and Gambier, O., gets the privilege of sending the first ball spinning across the turf in Forest Hills stadium today to open the 1941 National Singles Tennis championship.

* * *

That's in recognition of his position as defending champion. Don meets George Pryor of Pittsburgh, a former Kenyon teammate, in the first match. Due to his poor tournament record since he won the title last September, McNeill was seeded third in a field of 64 this year behind Bobby Riggs and Frank Kovacs.

* * *

Riggs and Kovacs also are listed to appear on the stadium courts today, the former facing Robin Hippenstiel of San Bernardino.

The women's division, with no pronounced favorite in the field of 62, may produce more exciting tennis than the men's.

Heading the list of girls seeking the title relinquished by Alice Marble when she turned pro is Pauline Betz of Los Angeles. Her first opponent is Doris Hart of Miami, runner-up for the national girls' title. Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of New York, seeded second, was given a first-round bye and likely will play the girls' champion, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., when she gets started.

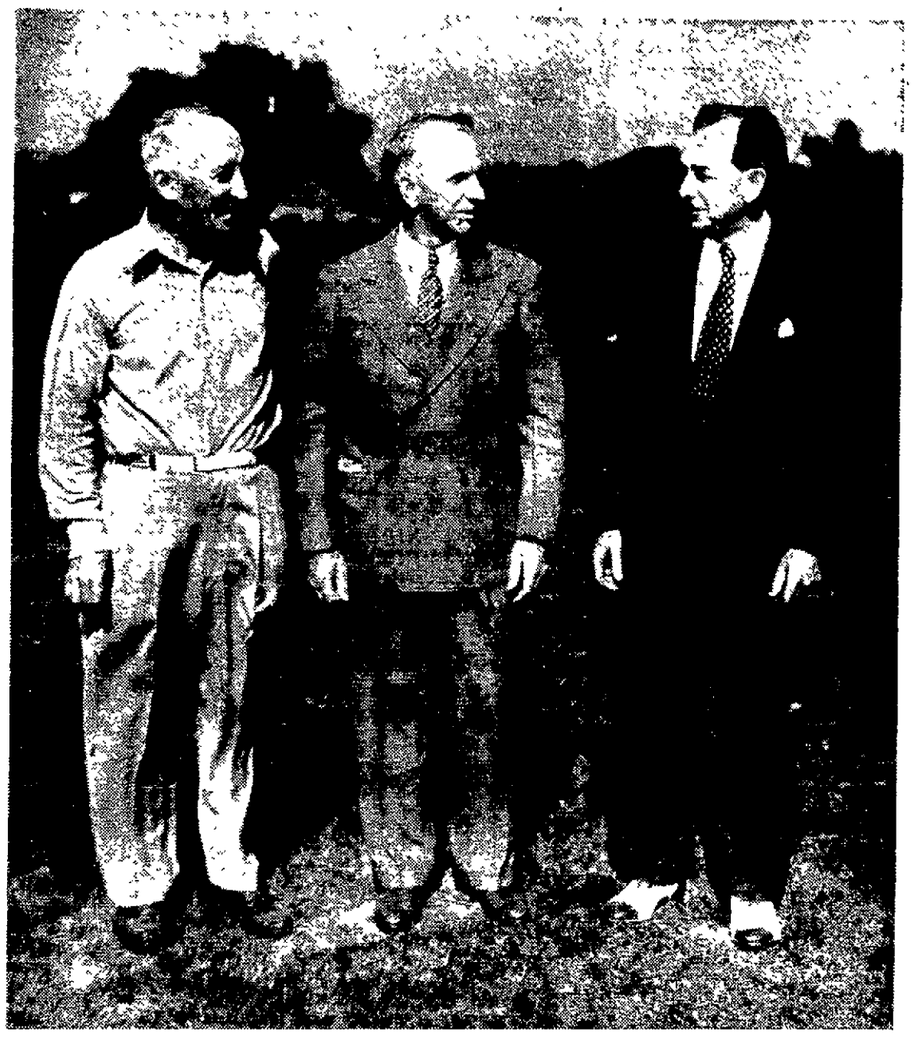
They Shot Best Golf In Senior Joust



The new champion of the Ohio Seniors Golf association, Attorney Frank B. Fults of Cleveland, is shown above receiving the congratulations of his nearest rivals for the crown, Joe Wells, left, of East Liverpool, former Ohio amateur champion, and Frank Pelton, right, of Cleveland, deposed title holder of the Seniors. The picture was taken at Westbrook Country club yesterday after the concluding round of the 13th annual tournament.

Ward After Second Title

Meets Pat Abbott For Amateur Golf Crown.

By EARL HILLIGAN

OMAHA —(AP)— A steel-nerved star who's been in before and an unemployed former movie extra—both up from the ranks of public links competition—knocked on the door of amateur golf's hall of fame today.

* * *

Seeking the 45th national amateur championship in a 36-hole battle over the rugged field club layout, are Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., winner in 1939, and slim Pat Abbott of Los Angeles, whose best previous bid for the crown was his loss to Willie Turnesa in the 1938 finals.

* * *

Their duel shaped up as a perfect climax to a week of sensational golf. For Ward, who yesterday moved ahead with a rousing 9 and 8 triumph over Bob Riegel of Houston, Tex., was the long-hitting "slugger" type of competitor as contrasted to the shorter but straighter shooting little California Irishman, who moved into the finals with a one up victory over Ted Bishop of Boston.

* * *

Ward, a public links tourney performer back in 1933 and in recent years the acknowledged top simon-pure of the country, never gave Riegel a chance. He won the first four holes with par golf and from that point on it was just a matter of time.

* * *

Abbott, playing a deliberate game and allowing no tight spots to ruffle his swing, held a two-hole edge over Bishop through 32 holes. He three-putted the 33rd, however, and the easterner appeared to have a chance. But Abbott refused to crack, matching his opponent shot for shot to the 36th, where a half gave him his triumph.

Both finalists are 28 years old and both have excellent records behind them.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — Another record for the Yanks: They'll start accepting applications for world series tickets next Wednesday, two weeks earlier than they've ever done it before. . . . You can bet anything you want that the Dodgers will play their series games, if any, at Ebbets Field, but it probably makes Larry MacPhail very sad to know that the park's capacity is just 6,000 more than the 28,000 seats the Yanks will sell the day of each game.

Colonels Gain On Red Birds

Sweep Four Game Series With AA Pacemakers.

(By Associated Press)

Shedding no tears because the schedule called for a move from the home field of the Louisville Colonels, the Columbus Red Birds went to Indianapolis today to continue their quest of the American Association championship.

* * *

The Red Birds went to Louisville with an eight and a half game margin over the second place Colonels. When they left today, the margin was only four and a half games.

* * *

Striving to salvage at least one victory from the four-game series, Columbus carried the game to 11 innings last night, but the Kentuckians took the decision, 3 to 2.

* * *

The two teams will meet again for three games on the last two days of the season at Columbus.

* * *

Minneapolis climbed into a third place tie with Kansas City on the basis of a 1 to 0 win over Milwaukee. Toledo, with a 6 to 0 triumph over Indianapolis, also gained a half game on idle Kansas City to tighten further the race for the third and fourth places. Toledo now is only a game behind Minneapolis and Kansas City.

The inaugural, a six-furlong sprint for $700, topped the opening eight-race card.

Edges Joe Wells By 1 Stroke In Tournament

Defending Champ Frank Pelton Finishes Two Strokes Off Pace

Frank B. Fults, Cleveland attorney from Canterbury club, is the new champion of the Ohio Seniors Golf association today after the closest race for the title in the 13 year history of the tournament.

Fults set a new tournament record of 154 over Westbrook Country club's long layout which proves a stern test for the association's golfers who range from 50 to over 75 years of age.

Although he led the pack both days, it wasn't an easy championship for Fults. He stood on the 18th green yesterday afternoon knowing he had to sink a 12-foot putt to beat Joe Wells, the five-time former Ohio amateur champion from East Liverpool.

* * *

He lined up the putt, stroked the ball with a sure, even touch, and potted the pellet like the new champion he was.

* * *

Fults turned in cards of 74-80-154 for the championship, while Wells had 78-77-155, and Frank Pelton of Cleveland, defending title-holder, and winner in 1937 and 1938, was one stroke back with 78-78-156. Another Clevelander, W. B. Foden, was right in the running with 79-78-157.

Wells lost the title when he three-putted within 10 feet of the cup for a three on the 17th hole. His comeback for a deuce on the par-three 18th came too late.

Fults also took the championship of Class D for golfers of 60 to 64 years of age, Pelton retained the Class E title for those 55 to 59, while Wells won the championship for class F for the youngsters from 50 to 54. It was his first appearance in the association's tourney.

* * *

In Class C for golfers 65 to 69, defending champion C. H. Foster of Cleveland was tied with Louis Brush, Salem and Canton newspaper publisher, with 178.

* * *

Defending champions retained their crowns in the two oldest classes, C. W. Stage winning in Class B for those 70 to 74 with a 178, and George M. Gray of Coshocton taking the honors in Class A for those over 75 with 190.

Former Governor George White regained the doubtful honors he won two years ago when he turned in the highest card of the tournament, 127-119-246.

Dodgers' Lead Increased

Joe Medwick Saves Whit Wyatt's Game.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Sufficient having been written for the time being about Howard Pollet, the Cardinal's sensational new pitcher, this writer hastens to put in a few words for Joe Medwick, an elderly outfielder for the Brooklyns.

* * *

Joe cost the Dodgers something more than $100,000 last season, was beaned soon thereafter, and at the end of the campaign was being referred to as "Larry MacPhail's Folly." His great comeback this season stamps Joe as one of the game's supreme gamesters.

* * *

He is crowding the league leaders with a batting average of .316, has hit 17 homers, and has slugged 74 runs across the plate, including the two that proved the eventual undoing of the Giants yesterday.

* * *

With the Dodgers clinging to a 5-4 lead in the ninth, Dink Bartell of the Giants whammed one far into left field that looked like the business, but Medwick made a running stab of the pellet and wrapped up victory for pitcher Whit Wyatt.

* * *

It was an important win for the Dodgers, as it fattened their lead over the idle Cards to a game and a half. They won yesterday's game (the only one played in the National league) by jumping on Hal Schumacher for six hits and five runs in the fifth inning.

The American league also was busy changing partners, and in the only contest played the St. Louis Browns smote the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2, as Elden Auker recorded his 13th triumph.

Bucyrus Gridders Get Vacation

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus high school "Redmen" are enjoying a three-day vacation from the strenuous workouts which have been held twice daily for the last two weeks.

* * *

Coach Nick Wasylik dismissed the men Friday morning with orders to report Tuesday morning at Lane street field when the candidates for the squad will be thinned out.

* * *

Among those showing up for practice Friday was Bob Schell, last year's regular tackle, who has just returned to Bucyrus from Troy where he has been employed during the summer. Other regulars from last year's championship team, who will be seen with this year's squad include Hank Spurlock, Jim Lethold and Neil Teets.

Split Series With Cycles

Seamless Tube Club Rallies To Take Game.

SHELBY — Before a record crowd of more than 600 spectators, the Ohio Seamless Tube company defeated the Shelby Cycle company, 4 to 2, Friday night to tie up the series to determine the championship of the Shelby Softball league at municipal water company field on North Gamble street.

* * *

Cycle company started off with a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning, but the Tube company rallied in the first half of the sixth inning to score four runs and set the winning margin.

* * *

Runs were made in the sixth inning for the Tube company by S. Cline, Irey, B. Laubie and Fisher after the Cycle company made a number or errors.

The Cycle company won the first game, 12 to 9. The third and final game will be played at 6 p. m., Tuesday at the water company field on North Gamble street.

PORTSIDER WINS SECOND NATIONAL GOLF TOURNEY

Antonio, 27-year-old clerk who annexed his first crown in 1938, climbed back to the top in the portsiders' ranks with a 2 and 1 victory over Johnny Ross of Milwaukee in the 36-hole finals of the annual tournament yesterday.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

When a small bright light is flashed toward an alligator at night, the animal, full of curiosity, will swim slowly toward the source of the bright beam. The 'gator's progress can be followed by the reflection of the light in his eyes. Apparently fascinated by a flashlight's glow, an alligator will swim so close to the light that you can bend over and pat his head—IF you want to. The usual procedure is to shut off the light and run as fast as you can.

A man living near Angleton, Texas, found last spring that predators were destroying his strawberries. Rabbits were suspected. He went to his berry patches with a loaded shotgun and found that his strawberries were apparently taking a walk. Closer investigation revealed that multitudes of crawfish were taking his berries to their holes, there to be eaten. Those crawfish ought to be good bass bait.

Fall is in the air, and it's not too early to give thought to the hunting season, just ahead. Yuncker's are ready with complete selections of new guns, featuring all the leading makes, in all gauges, models and barrel lengths. Come in now and make your selection. A small payment down will reserve the gun of your choice.

More Canadian geese went north through Michigan this last spring than at any time during the last twenty years. Waterfowl hunters have good reason for optimism.

* * *

A yard of a home in Sonora, Texas, was recently invaded by a big javelina boar which terrorized the dogs and about everything else in sight, including the housewife who sought to enter the yard. She called a neighbor who made a good boar out of a bad one with his rifle. It's very rare for these animals to enter villages or towns.

Where NOT to go: The rainbow trout in the celebrated St. Mary's rapids of the Saulte St. Marie are now guarded by soldiers with fixed bayonets. Constant guard is maintained over the area which contains the locks and canal, and entrance is refused.

Seeing a herd of elk along a highway ned Aberdeen, Wash., W. E. Reeves tried to make friends with one by offering it cookies. No takers! But cigarets . . . after chewing up a few the bull got such a taste for 'em, he came right up to the car for more.

The Olentangy Beagle Club will hold their second A.K.C. licensed field trial from Sunday, Aug. 31, to Thursday, Sept. 4, inclusive. The 13-inch bitches to run on Sunday, followed by the 13-inch dogs on Monday. Both derbies on Tuesday, 15-inch dogs on Wednesday, and finishing with 15-inch bitches on Thursday. Enter that good one.

STOCK MARKET WORKING OVER NARROW FIELD

Many Leaders at Standstill While Gains Are Noted In Slow Opening.

While gains were plentiful at a slow opening, numerous leaders were at a standstill. On the upside were United Aircraft, Texas Corp., American Can and Anaconda. Unchanged to lower were Sandard Oil (NJ), N. Y. Central, U. S. Steel and General Motors.

Boardrooms noted forecasts that manufacturers' inventories this month would register their first recession in an uninterrupted climb which got under way last spring. Priorities and rigid scrutiny of customers' needs for supplies were said to have curtailed purchases substantially in many instances. The inventory item established a record top in July.

EXTEND AVENUE

Commissioners Approve Plan For New Heights Outlet.

County commissioners today approved the extension of Illinois avenue in Lincoln Heights but turned down a petition for the establishment of a new section of the McCurdy road in the Pleasant Hill lake section of Worthington township.

Approval of the Lincoln Heights proposal opens the way for extending Illinois avenue southward from the Ashland road to an outlet to Park avenue east.

Following the commissioners' action, Madison township trustees agreed to start work immediately on construction of the 482 foot extension. It will be surfaced with slag or gravel until it is possible to pave it.

The extension is expected to provide a new route into the city from Lincoln Heights and reduce the amount of traffic over the Ashland hill. There are several homes along the extension.

Commissioners said they refused to approve the Worthington township proposal because there was considerable opposition to it and the property owners who favored it failed to appear at the hearing this morning. The petition involved only a one-tenth mile section of the road.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO—(AP)—(U. S. D. of A.)—Salable hogs, 300, total, 1,300; hogs nominally steady with not enough good and choice hogs received to establish a market, shippers took none; holdover, 1,000, compared with a week ago, all weights barrows and gilts around 10c higher, sows steady.

Salable cattle, 200; no calves, very active trade most of week but general market reacted on late rounds, compared Friday last week, strictly choice yearlings and matured steers closed steady to strong, with all other grades and representative weights weak, all light and choice heavy heifers strong to 25c higher, but other grades heifers scaling over 800 lbs. lost early advance; cows weak to 25c lower, bulls weak; vealers 50c higher; predominantly fed steer run, liberal supply scaling 1200-1400 lbs., yearling steers scarce; top $12.85 on 1189 and 1288-lb. averages, next highest price $12.80, best yearlings, including mixed offerings $12 75; 1462 lbs. up to $12 50 and 1730 lbs. to $11.75; 1365-lb. Montana steers $11.35; little to killers under $10 75; best fed heifers $12 50, part load $12 75, cutter cows closed at $7 down, sausage bulls at $9 25 down; and choice vealers $13-14.

Salable sheep, 1,500; total, 5,500; compared Friday last week spring lambs and yearlings steady to 25c lower, fat sheep weak, late sales closely sorted western springers $12.50 highest for week, with few natives $12.20, bulk good and choice natives $11 75-12 10, throwouts very draggy mostly $9 down, best yearlings $9 75, bulk $9-9.50, bulk fat native ewes $4-5 few lightweights to $5 25, cull and common grades $2.50-3.25.

ATTORNEY WINS IN WISCONSIN

Defeats Incumbent Congressman Who Supported FDR Policies.

RACINE, Wis. — (INS) — Lawrence H. Smith, a Racine attorney who ran on the Republican ticket, today was winner of a special election in Wisconsin's first congressional district, and will succeed the late Rep. Stephen Bolles (R.) in congress.

Smith's opponent, Thomas R. Amlie, former Progressive who ran on the Democratic ticket, conceded the election. A tabulation showed 29,657 votes for Smith and 16,942 for Amlie.

Amlie ran on a platform of full support for the president's policies.

PROJECTS TO CLOSE

PAINESVILLE — (AP) — National Youth Administration projects in Lake, Ashtabula and Geauga counties will be closed tomorrow, Area Director Karl Duldner announced, because private industry has absorbed most of the youths enrolled for work.

Senators Investigate Eastern Oil Crisis

SEEK PASSAGE OF TAX BILL

Leaders Begin Vote Round-up To Speed Action on Giant Revenue Measure.

necessary," declared Senator Johnson (D.-Col.). "The bill has been a headache to us and it will be a heartache to the taxpayers."

Senator George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the finance committee, expressed the opinion that "the treasury estimate of $3,672,400,000 is too low; the legislation will yield about $4,000,000,000 a year."

The measure will be brought to the senate floor Wednesday, and Democratic Leader Barkley is hopeful of winning passage by next Saturday.

Before the measure goes to the president, however, the differences between the senate and house bills will have to be adjusted in conference.

Increases all individual Income taxes from 4 to 10 per cent in the bottom brackets and provides varying percentages of increase all along the line.

Imposes or increases so-called "nuisance" taxes on a score of articles ranging from furs and phonographs to matches and musical instruments.

Raises present excess profits taxes from 25 to 35 per cent on the first $20,000 of excess profits net income and increases the rate by 10 per cent in all brackets, making the final rate 60 per cent on such incomes over $500,000 compared with 50 per cent at present.

Provides that excess profits may be computed either by the invested capital or average earning methods.

Retains existing normal corporation taxes but adds surtax of 6 per cent on the first $25,000 of net income and 7 per cent on income over that figure.

Creates special 14-man committee to investigate methods of curtailing non-defense expenditures.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Reported Improved — Atty. T. Y. McCray, who suffered a stroke recently at his home, was reported slightly improved today. He is at his residence at 172 Wood street.

Board Meets — The Richland county board of education was scheduled to hold its monthly session at noon today at the courthouse.

HOLDS COMMENT

Agent Refuses To Talk About Investigation At Sandusky.

FREMONT, O.—(AP)—Joseph D. Cleary, agent for the Ohio taxation department, withheld comment today after concluding an investigation of alleged irregularities in Sandusky county sales tax funds.

Cleary said any report on his check of vendors' purchase order receipts for 1937-38 would have to come from Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt, who said two months ago a shortage had been discovered, but that it was repaid.

CANADIAN LEGION MEETS

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Between 1500 and 2000 members of the Great Lakes command of the Canadian Legion gathered here today for their seventh annual convention which will continue through Labor day.

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

HONEST, ZERO – I GOT THE WIM-WAMS SOMETHIN' AWFUL – AN' THEY'RE GETTIN' WORSE AN' WORSE ALL THE TIME!!
CAPTAIN EZRA LIKES ME AN' YESTERDAY HE CALLED ON MRS. ROBERT AN' TOLD HER THAT IN SPITE OF ALL THE MONEY SHE WAS SPENDIN' ON ME, I WASN'T HAPPY HERE
I KNOW CAPTAIN EZRA WANTED TO BE KIND AN' POLITE, BUT I GUESS HE DIDN'T USE THE RIGHT KINDA WORDS – 'CAUSE MRS. ROBERT GOT TERRIBLE MAD AN' CALLED HIM A MEDDLIN' OLD BUSYBODY
DARRELL McCLURE
MRS. ROBERT IS MAD AT ME, TOO, 'CAUSE SHE THINKS I TOLD CAPTAIN EZRA I WASN'T HAPPY HERE – BUT I NEVER DID – 'COURSE, IT'S ALL MY OWN FAULT, 'CAUSE I DON'T KNOW HOW A RICH KID OUGHTA ACT
I SEE RED EVERY TIME I THINK OF AN IMPERTINENT OLD FOSSIL LIKE CAPTAIN EZRA DARING TO TELL ME HOW TO TRAIN A LITTLE GIRL!!
ALL THE OLD FOOL KNOWS ANYTHING ABOUT IS SHIPS AND HOARDING MONEY – HE WAS TOO STINGY TO EVEN GET MARRIED! ARE YOU SURE YOU NEVER TOLD HIM THAT YOU WERE NEGLECTED AND TREATED UNKINDLY IN MY HOME??
YES, MA'AM – I'M POSITIVE SURE I DIDN'T – I TOLD EVERYONE YOU TREATED ME SWELL – JUST LIKE I WAS A TERRIBLE RICH KID WITH FOLKS AN' EVERYTHING
DARRELL McCLURE
AN' I DIDN'T PRETEND I KNEW THAT ALL THE POOR FOLKS IN TOWN THAT USED TO LIKE ME DON'T LIKE ME ANY-MORE – AN' IF THE KIDS CALLED ME MEAN NAMES, I PRETENDED I DIDN'T HEAR 'EM
HONEST, MR. BOB – THERE MUST BE SOMETHIN' THE MATTER WITH ME – YOUR MOTHER IS MAD AT ME, 'CAUSE CAPTAIN EZRA TOLD HER HE THOUGHT SHE WASN'T TREATIN' ME RIGHT –
MOST ALL THE FOLKS IN TOWN IS MAD AT ME, 'CAUSE THEY THINK I'M STUCK UP AN' SNOOTY 'CAUSE I'M IM LIVIN' WITH RICH FOLKS IN THIS SWELL BIG HOUSE, AN' –
NOW, DON'T TALK LIKE THAT, ANNIE – IDLE GOSSIP AND MISUNDERSTANDING HAVE PUSHED YOU BEHIND THE EIGHT BALL – JUST KEEP YOUR CHIN UP – TROUBLE IS LIKE A TOOTHACHE – IT WON'T LAST FOREVER
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT IF YOUR TOOTH HURTS, THE DENTIST WILL PULL IT OUT – THEN IT DON'T HURT NO MORE – BUT WHEN TROUBLE HURTS YOU I GUESS YOU JUST GOTTA KEEP FEELIN' AWFUL BAD TILL IT GOES AWAY
ALL MY LIFE YOU'VE BEEN A REAL FRIEND TO ME, CAPTAIN EZRA – YOU'VE DONE ME A MILLION FAVORS AND I'M GRATEFUL – I AM MIGHTY SORRY ABOUT THE MISUNDERSTANDING BETWEEN MY MOTHER AND YOU
I'M SORRY, TOO, LAD – IT WAS ALL MY FAULT – I SHOULD HAVE MINDED MY OWN BUSINESS – FIGGER I'M GETTIN' OLD – FIRST TIME I EVER TRIED TO STEER SOMEONE ELSE'S SHIP
BUT I'M MIGHTY FOND OF LITTLE ANNIE – WANTED TO SEE THE YOUNGSTER HAPPY AN' FIGGERED IF I HAD A FRIENDLY TALK 'BOUT HER WITH YOUR MOTHER – I KNOW YOUR HEART'S IN THE RIGHT PLACE, BUT –
DARRELL McCLURE
MRS. ROBERT IS MAD AT CAPTAIN EZRA AN' SHE TOLD ME I MUST NEVER TALK TO HIM ANY MORE – AN' I GOTTA DO WHAT MRS. ROBERT SEZ – BUT EVERY TIME I THINK HOW NICE CAPTAIN TREATED ME, IT MAKES ME WANNA CRY AN' CRY LIKE A BAWL BABY
YES, ANNIE – CAPTAIN EZRA AND I HAVE ALWAYS BEEN GOOD FRIENDS – WHEN I WAS YOUR SIZE HE MADE ME FISH CHOWDER, TOLD ME SEA STORIES AND TAUGHT ME HOW TO MEND NETS
CAPTAIN EZRA NEVER HAD ANY CHILDREN OF HIS OWN – MAYBE THAT'S WHY HE HAD ROOM IN HIS KIND HEART FOR EVERY CHILD IN TOWN – HE GAVE ME A MESSAGE FOR YOU –
HONEST, NO FOOLIN' – IS HE MAD AT ME??
CERTAINLY NOT – HE KNOWS MOTHER ORDERED YOU NOT TO SPEAK TO HIM
HE SAID TO TELL YOU A GOOD SAILOR ALWAYS OBEYS ORDERS – AND WHEN THE PRESENT STORM BLOWS OVER – YOU'LL FIND HE IS STILL YOUR FRIEND
GLORYOSKY – NOW I FEEL GLAD ALL OVER
GLORYOSKY, ZERO – I HAD THE GRANDEST DREAM – I THOUGHT YOU AN' I WERE WALKIN' ALONG A LITTLE ROAD 'WAY OUT IN THE COUNTRY –
EVERYWHERE YOU LOOKED THERE WERE BIRDS AN' TREES AN' FLOWERS THAT COULD TALK JUST LIKE FOLKS DO – AN' YOU COULD TALK, TOO – GEE, IT WAS SWELL
YOU WERE TELLIN' ME A FUNNY STORY – AN' ALL THE TREES AN' FLOWERS WAS LAFFIN' SO HARD THEY WAS SHAKIN' – AN' THE SUN-FLOWERS LAFFED SO LOUD THEY WOKE ME UP –
AN' I KNEW IT WAS ONLY A DREAM, 'CAUSE WHEN I LOOKED OUT THE WINDOW IT WAS RAININ' AN' THE SKIES WAS ALL DARK – BUT I DON'T CARE – JUST THINKIN' OF THE DREAM MAKES ME FEEL NICE AN' HAPPY

SECRET AGENT X-9

QUICK! DO YOU CONFIRM MY OBSERVATION? IS THAT NOT THE BOGUS ARMY CAPTAIN?
IT IS HE! WE MUST NOT LET HIM GIVE US THE SLIP AGAIN, OR WE HAVE NOT THE RIGHT TO CALL OURSELVES SECRET POLICE!
YEAH— HERE COME THOSE SECRET GUM-SHOES AGAIN, HITTING THE TRAIL LIKE THE THUNDERING HERD!
HALT!
I'D BETTER SKIP GOING TO NIKKI'S UNDERGROUND CONTACT! HE'D BE IN A CONCENTRATION CAMP BY MORNING, IF I WERE FOUND IN HIS HOME! I'LL TRY TO SHAKE THOSE COPS IN THIS BUILDING!
MEL GRAFF
GREAT SCOTT! IT'S "HILARY"! HE'S BEING LED AWAY — BUT WHERE?
WHERE IS THIS MAN BEING TAKEN; SERGEANT?
TO A CONCENTRATION CAMP, CAPTAIN! WE HAVE ORDERS TO ADD HIM TO THE GROUP NOW BEING ASSEMBLED AT THE RAILROAD STATION!
THE NAME IS "HILARY", IS IT NOT? AN AMERICAN ECONOMIC EXPERT FOR ONE OF THE DEFEATED COUNTRIES, THAT NOW REFUSES TO SURRENDER GOVERNMENT FUNDS TO THE FATHERLAND?
THAT IS PRECISELY SO, MY CAPTAIN!
THERE IS SOME RUMOR THAT AN ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO SPIRIT HIM AWAY — SEE THAT THE STREET IS CLEARED!
MEL GRAFF
BUT WE ARE SECRET POLICE! THAT CAPTAIN IS AN IMPOSTOR! LET US THROUGH!
BACK! I HAVE STRICT ORDERS TO SHOOT ANYONE WHO APPROACHES!
WE HAVE ARRIVED AT THE STATION, CAPTAIN! WHAT ARE YOUR ORDERS IN RESPECT TO THE MAN, "HILARY"?
GROUP HIM WITH THE OTHER PRISONERS BOUND FOR THE CONCENTRATION CAMP!
I CAN'T KEEP POSING IN THIS PHONY CAPTAIN'S UNIFORM! THOSE TWO SECRET COPS ARE OVER THERE, JABBERING WITH THAT BRASS HAT!
THEY'RE MAKING THE PRISONERS DISCARD EXCESS CLOTHES IN THAT ROOM. I'VE GOT TO GET MY HANDS ON SOME OF IT... MAYBE I CAN MIX IN THE MOB AND GET SENT TO THE CONCENTRATION CAMP
LATER
HERE, YOU! GET IN LINE! YOU VERMIN WILL SOON LEARN THE VALUE OF PROMPT OBEDIENCE TO YOUR SUPERIORS!
JUST WAIT, BROTHER!
MEL GRAFF
THOSE TWO SECRET COPS ARE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR ME, BUT THEY'LL NEVER RECOGNIZE ME AMONG THIS MOB BEING SHIPPED OFF TO A CONCENTRATION CAMP!
THE TRAIN'S STARTED! NOW TO FIND "HILARY" AND LET HIM KNOW I'M WITH HIM. WHEW! THEY WOULDN'T PUSH CATTLE AROUND LIKE THIS!
PRISONERS ARE WARNED THAT ANYONE MAKING A SUSPICIOUS MOVE WILL BE SHOT ON THE SPOT!
HOW NOT TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE!
MEL GRAFF
I'VE GOT TO REACH "HILARY" WITHOUT ATTRACTING THE GUARDS!
PS-S-ST! MR "HILARY"!
GREAT GUNS! IT — IT'S X-9!
I THOUGHT I RECOGNIZED YOU, DRESSED IN AN OFFICER'S UNIFORM! ARE THEY SENDING YOU TO A CONCENTRATION CAMP, TOO?
NO... THEY DON'T KNOW I'M HERE... I'M GOING TO TRY TO GET YOU AWAY!
8 29
HOW WILL YOU DO IT? WE ARE WATCHED EVERY MOMENT BY THE GUARDS!
WE'LL GET OUR CHANCE!
MEL GRAFF
WE SHOULD BE AT THE CONCENTRATION CAMP IN ABOUT AN HOUR. HILARY... SAY, THOSE GUYS OVER THERE ARE UP TO SOMETHING!
LOOKS THAT WAY, X-9!
WHEN WE ENTER THE NEXT TUNNEL, WE WILL OVERPOWER THE GUARDS AND UNCOUPLE THE CARS! IT IS OUR FINAL CHANCE!
BUT IF WE FAIL?
WHAT HAVE WE TO LOOK FORWARD TO, AT THE CAMP? YEARS OF ENDLESS TORTURE! IT IS BETTER TO DIE OUTRIGHT
BUT WHAT OF THE OTHERS? SHALL WE ENLIST FURTHER AID?
NO! THEY MIGHT BETRAY US TO THE GUARDS FOR THE PRICE OF THEIR FREEDOM! LET THEM ESCAPE OR NOT, AS THEY CHOOSE!

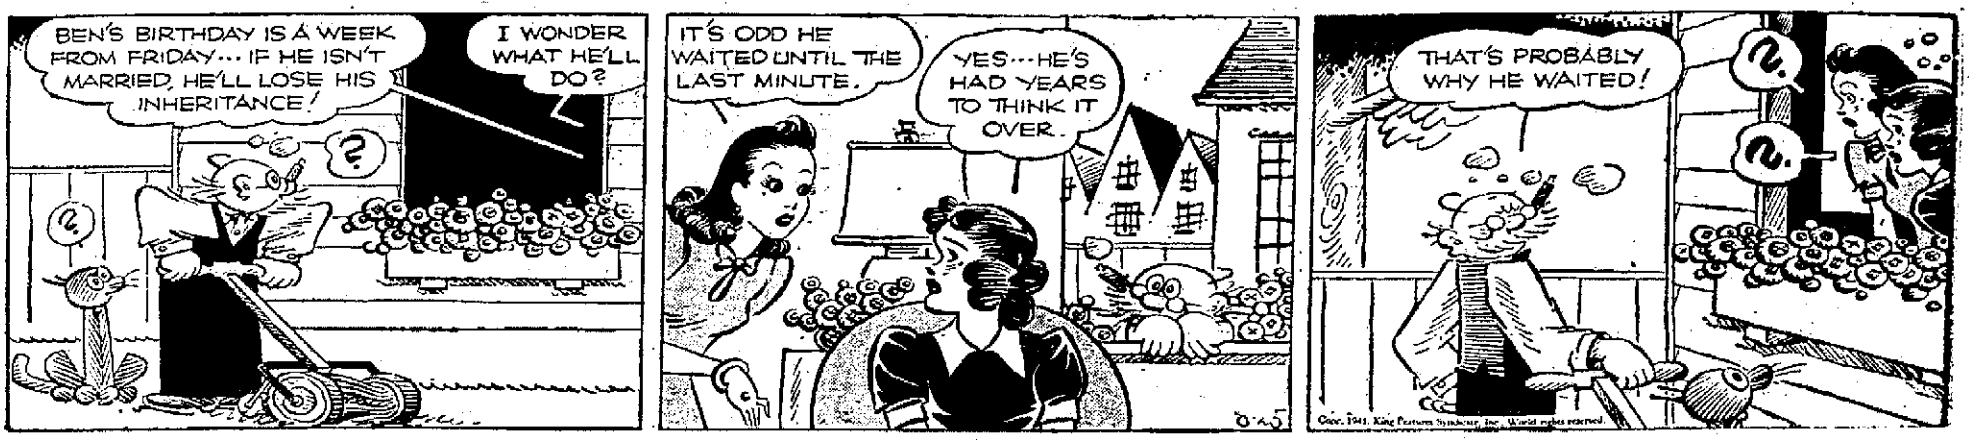
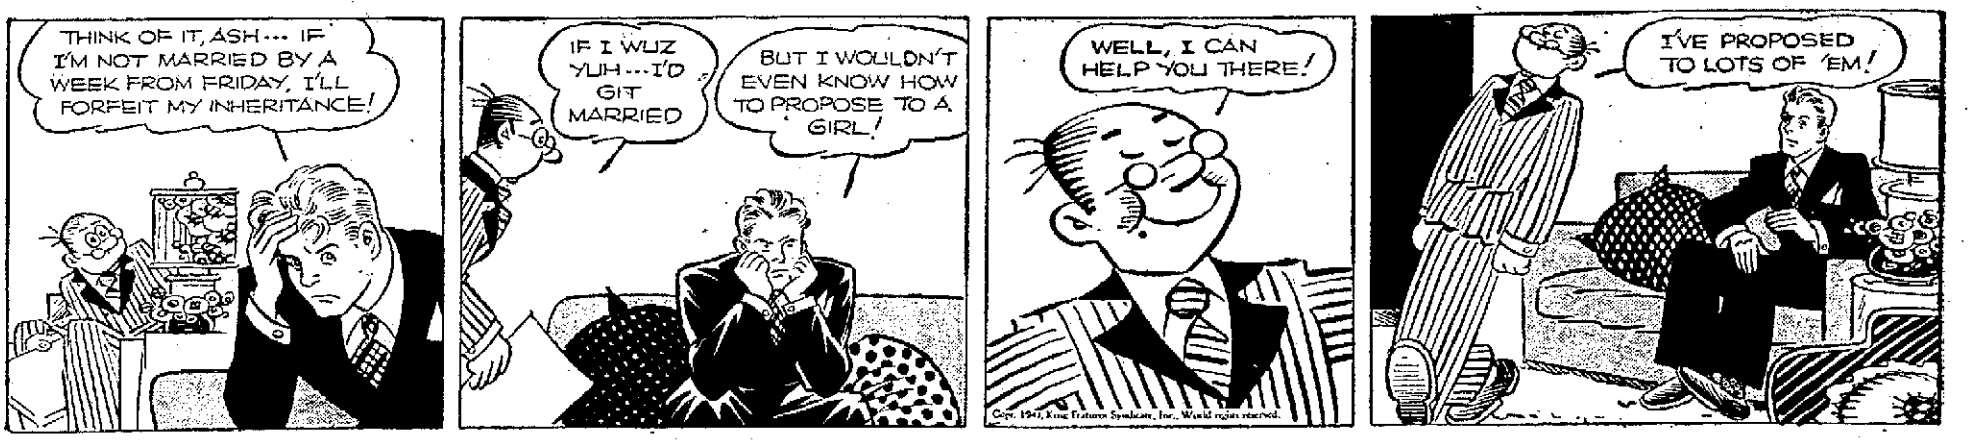
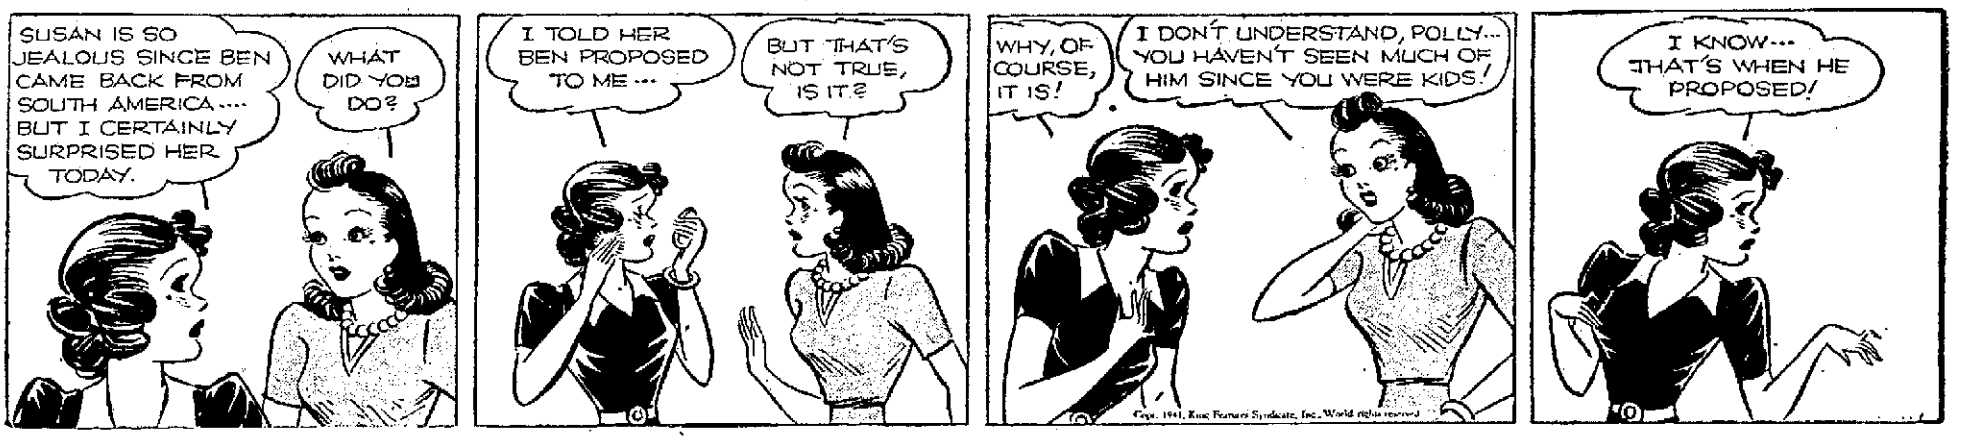
POLLY AND HER PALS



BEN'S BIRTHDAY IS A WEEK FROM FRIDAY... IF HE ISN'T MARRIED, HE'LL LOSE HIS INHERITANCE!
I WONDER WHAT HE'LL DO?
IT'S ODD HE WAITED UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE.
YES...HE'S HAD YEARS TO THINK IT OVER.
THAT'S PROBABLY WHY HE WAITED!



THINK OF IT, ASH... IF I'M NOT MARRIED BY A WEEK FROM FRIDAY, I'LL FORFEIT MY INHERITANCE!
IF I WUZ YUH...I'D GIT MARRIED
BUT I WOULDN'T EVEN KNOW HOW TO PROPOSE TO A GIRL!
WELL, I CAN HELP YOU THERE!
I'VE PROPOSED TO LOTS OF 'EM!



SUSAN IS SO JEALOUS SINCE BEN CAME BACK FROM SOUTH AMERICA.... BUT I CERTAINLY SURPRISED HER TODAY.
WHAT DID YOU DO?
I TOLD HER BEN PROPOSED TO ME...
BUT THAT'S NOT TRUE, IS IT?
WHY, OF COURSE, IT IS!
I DON'T UNDERSTAND, POLLY... YOU HAVEN'T SEEN MUCH OF HIM SINCE YOU WERE KIDS!
I KNOW... THAT'S WHEN HE PROPOSED!

IF I'M MARRIED A WEEK FROM FRIDAY...I'LL INHERIT A FORTUNE AND IF I'M NOT...I'LL BE NO WORSE OFF THAN I'M NOW.
OH, YOU'D BE HAPPIER, I KNOW!
BUT I'VE NEVER BEEN RICH... I WOULDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH A LOT OF MONEY.
DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT...
...YOUR WIFE WOULD!
THAT'S THE IDEA, POLLY!
HOW'S THAT?
O.K., POLLY. YOU'RE LEARNING FAST!
DON'T TELL ME YOU'VE DITCHED BEN!
DITCH HIM? WHY, I HAVE A DATE WITH HIM TONIGHT!
THEN WHY THE ACT? YOU KNOW HOW TO PUTT AS WELL AS I DO!
OF COURSE, I DO, SILLY!
I WAS JUST GIVING MY NEW PERFUME A TRY OUT!
POLLY...LOOK AT THESE PICTURES...
OH! ONE OF THE PICTURES BEN JUST GAVE ME... OF HIMSELF.
...AND THIS ONE.... PAW TOOK O' HIM TEN YEARS AGO... BEFORE HE WENT TO SOUTH AMERICA
G-GOSH, MA! ONE OF THEM MUST BE AN IMPOSTOR!

TOOTS AND CASPER

MR. SHARPP, OUR MEN CHECKED YOUR APARTMENT, YOUR OFFICE AND YOUR FILES AND I AM HAPPY TO SAY YOU SEEM ABSOLVED OF ANY CONNECTION WITH THE MISSING FUNDS.
LIKEWISE, WE CHECKED CASPER'S OFFICE AND NOW WE'D LIKE TO CHECK HIS HOME!
GO RIGHT AHEAD--I'LL DRIVE YOU OUT.
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
OF COURSE, UNDERSTAND NO ONE IS AS YET SUSPECTED ····· BUT $14,000.00 IS MISSING FROM THE FIRM'S SAFE AND ONLY YOU TWO MEN HAD ACCESS TO IT.
JIMMY MURPHY
HERE'S MY HOUSE--HELP YOURSELF. SEARCH ALL YOU WISH.
THANK YOU, THIS IS MERELY A ROUTINE INSPECTION.
LITTLE DOES CASPER KNOW THAT PART OF THE MISSING FUNDS WERE PLANTED IN THE VASE ON HIS PIANO BY KARLO SHARPP.
MR. CASPER, WE'VE SEARCHED YOUR HOUSE FROM PILLAR TO POST WITHOUT ANY TRACE OF THE MISSING FUNDS--I KNEW YOU WERE INNOCENT.
I KNEW IT, TOO--HONEST MEN NEVER FEAR ANY SEARCHES.
I'M NOT SO SURE OF THAT! YOU KNOW, LAST NIGHT I HAD A DREAM---AND I DREAMT THAT PART OF THE MISSING MONEY WAS IN A VASE, RIGHT HERE IN CASPER'S HOUSE
ABSURD! POINT OUT THE VASE AND LET'S LOOK INTO IT.

THE MONEY WAS IN HERE--- THEN CASPER HAS REMOVED IT.
SAY, WHAT MAKES YOU SO SURE PART OF THE STOLEN MONEY WAS IN THAT VASE?
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved.
BECAUSE WHEN I WAS HERE LAST WEEK I SAW YOU PUT THE MONEY IN THE VASE
THAT'S A LIE, SHARPP! THERE WAS NEVER ANY MONEY IN THAT VASE!
JIMMY MURPHY
SUDDENLY A STEALTHY FIGURE ENTERS
SHARPP IS RIGHT! $2,000.00 IN MARKED BILLS WERE IN THAT VASE--- FOR A FEW HOURS.
WHO ARE YOU? OH, YOU'RE THE NEW SHIPPING CLERK WHO WAS TRANSFERRED HERE FROM THE NORTH.
I'M NOT A CLERK--I'M AN INSPECTOR FROM HEAD-QUARTERS ASSIGNED TO INVESTIGATE THE THEFTS.
YOUR GAME'S UP, KARLO SHARPP! YOU STOLE $14,000.00 OF THE FIRM'S MONEY---AND LOST IT ON THE RACES -- WE HAVE THE SWORN STATEMENTS OF YOUR BOOKIE AND WITNESSES TO YOUR BETS AT THE TRACK--
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved.
THE LAST $2,000.00 YOU TOOK OUT OF THE SAFE, WAS MARKED MONEY--YOU DISCOVERED THAT--YOU CALLED ON CASPER HERE--AND WHILE HE AND HIS WIFE WERE OUT OF THE ROOM YOU PUT THE MARKED BILLS IN THE VASE ON THE PIANO.
JIMMY MURPHY
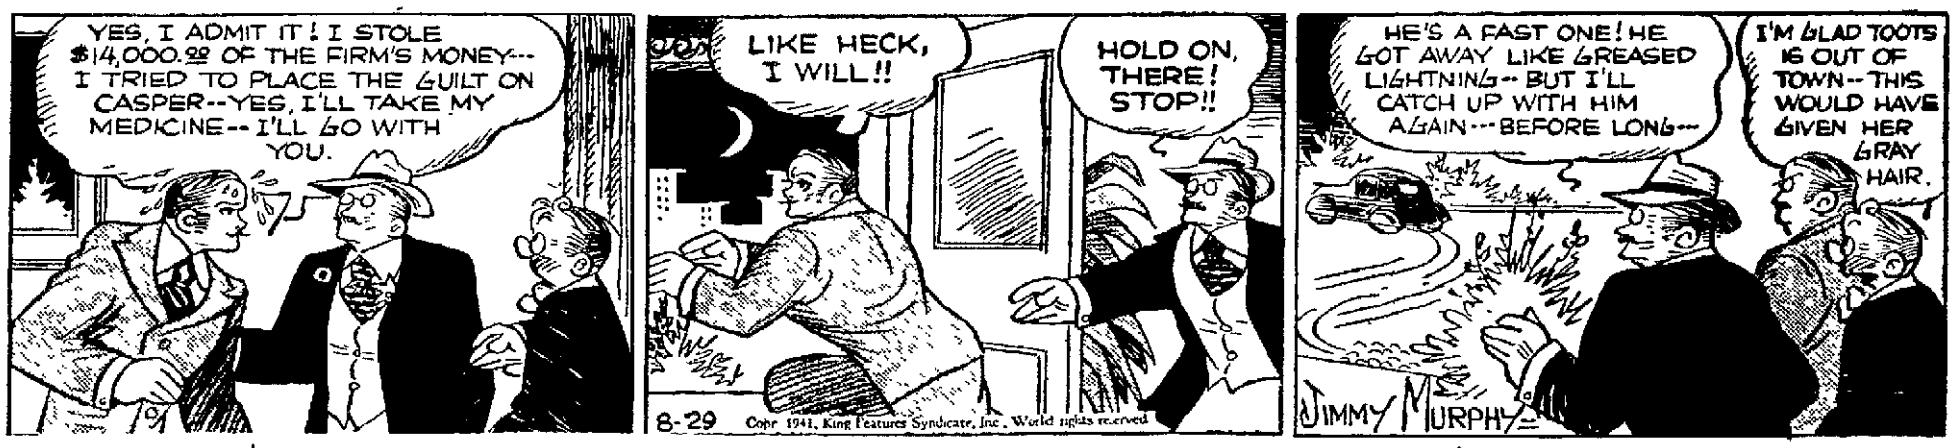
MY MEN AND I FOLLOWED YOU HERE--- WE WATCHED THROUGH THE WINDOW, AS YOU TRIED TO PLANT THE BLAME ON CASPER--- SOON AFTERWARDS, I USED A PASS KEY AND TOOK THE MONEY-- NOW COME ALONG--QUIETLY.



YES, I ADMIT IT! I STOLE $14,000.00 OF THE FIRM'S MONEY--- I TRIED TO PLACE THE GUILT ON CASPER--YES, I'LL TAKE MY MEDICINE--I'LL GO WITH YOU.
LIKE HECK, I WILL!!
HOLD ON, THERE! STOP!!
8-29 Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
HE'S A FAST ONE! HE GOT AWAY LIKE GREASED LIGHTNING-- BUT I'LL CATCH UP WITH HIM AGAIN--- BEFORE LONG---
JIMMY MURPHY
I'M GLAD TOOTS IS OUT OF TOWN--THIS WOULD HAVE GIVEN HER GRAY HAIR.
GEE, I'M SURE GLAD YOU'RE BACK, TOOTS--THAT GUY, SHARPP, STOLE $14,000.00 OF THE FIRM'S DOUGH AND TRIED TO PIN THE BLAME ON ME.
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER, I NEVER LIKED HIM FROM THE BEGINNING, BUT I NEVER SAID MUCH TO YOU ABOUT IT, BECAUSE HE WAS YOUR BOSS AND IT MIGHT HAVE CAUSED TROUBLE.
8-30
HE WON'T BE MY BOSS, ANYMORE! WE'VE SEEN THE LAST OF HIM---HE ESCAPED, BUT I WOULDN'T WANT TO BE IN HIS SHOES NOW
SURE, I KNEW YOU WERE INNOCENT, CASPER! ANYBODY'D KNOW THAT A DUMB-BELL LIKE YOU ISN'T SMART ENOUGH TO GET AWAY WITH $14,000.00!

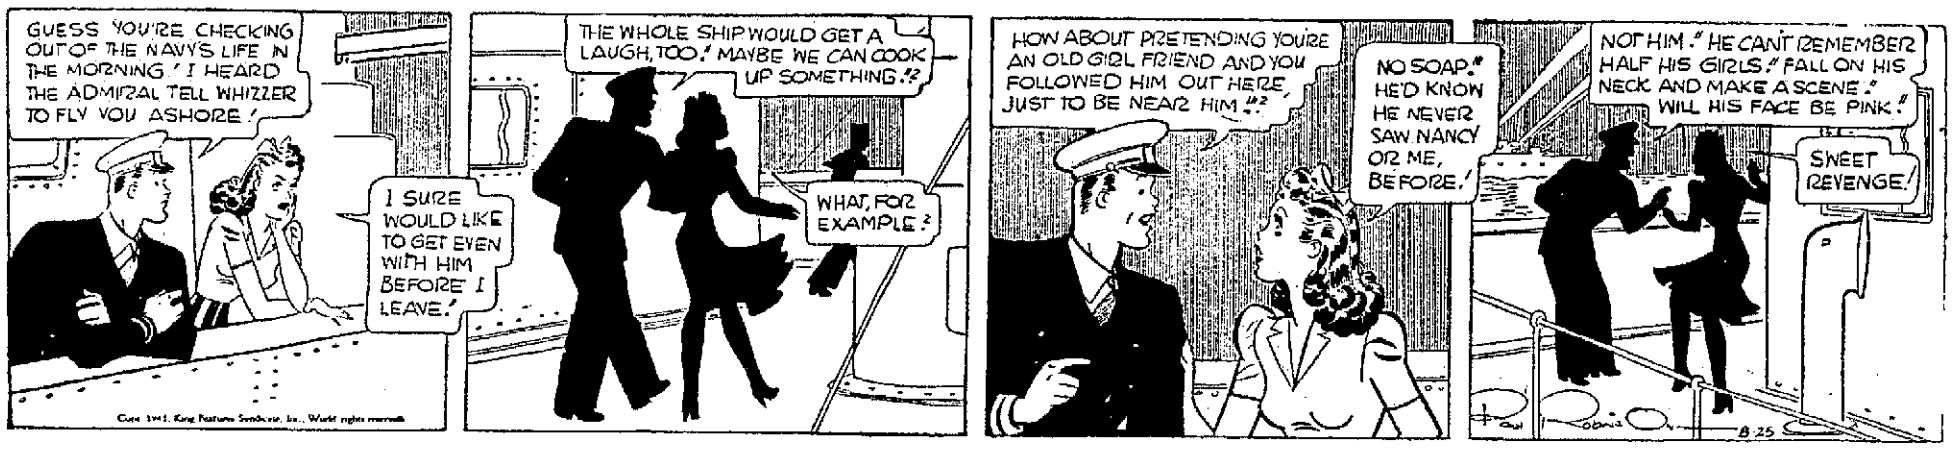
ETTA KETT



GUESS YOU'RE CHECKING OUT OF THE NAVY'S LIFE IN THE MORNING. I HEARD THE ADMIRAL TELL WHIZZER TO FLY YOU ASHORE.
I SURE WOULD LIKE TO GET EVEN WITH HIM BEFORE I LEAVE.
THE WHOLE SHIP WOULD GET A LAUGH, TOO. MAYBE WE CAN COOK UP SOMETHING.
WHAT, FOR EXAMPLE?
HOW ABOUT PRETENDING YOU'RE AN OLD GIRL FRIEND AND YOU FOLLOWED HIM OUT HERE, JUST TO BE NEAR HIM.
NO SOAP. HE'D KNOW HE NEVER SAW NANCY OR ME, BEFORE.
NOT HIM. HE CAN'T REMEMBER HALF HIS GIRLS. FALL ON HIS NECK AND MAKE A SCENE. WILL HIS FACE BE PINK.
SWEET REVENGE.

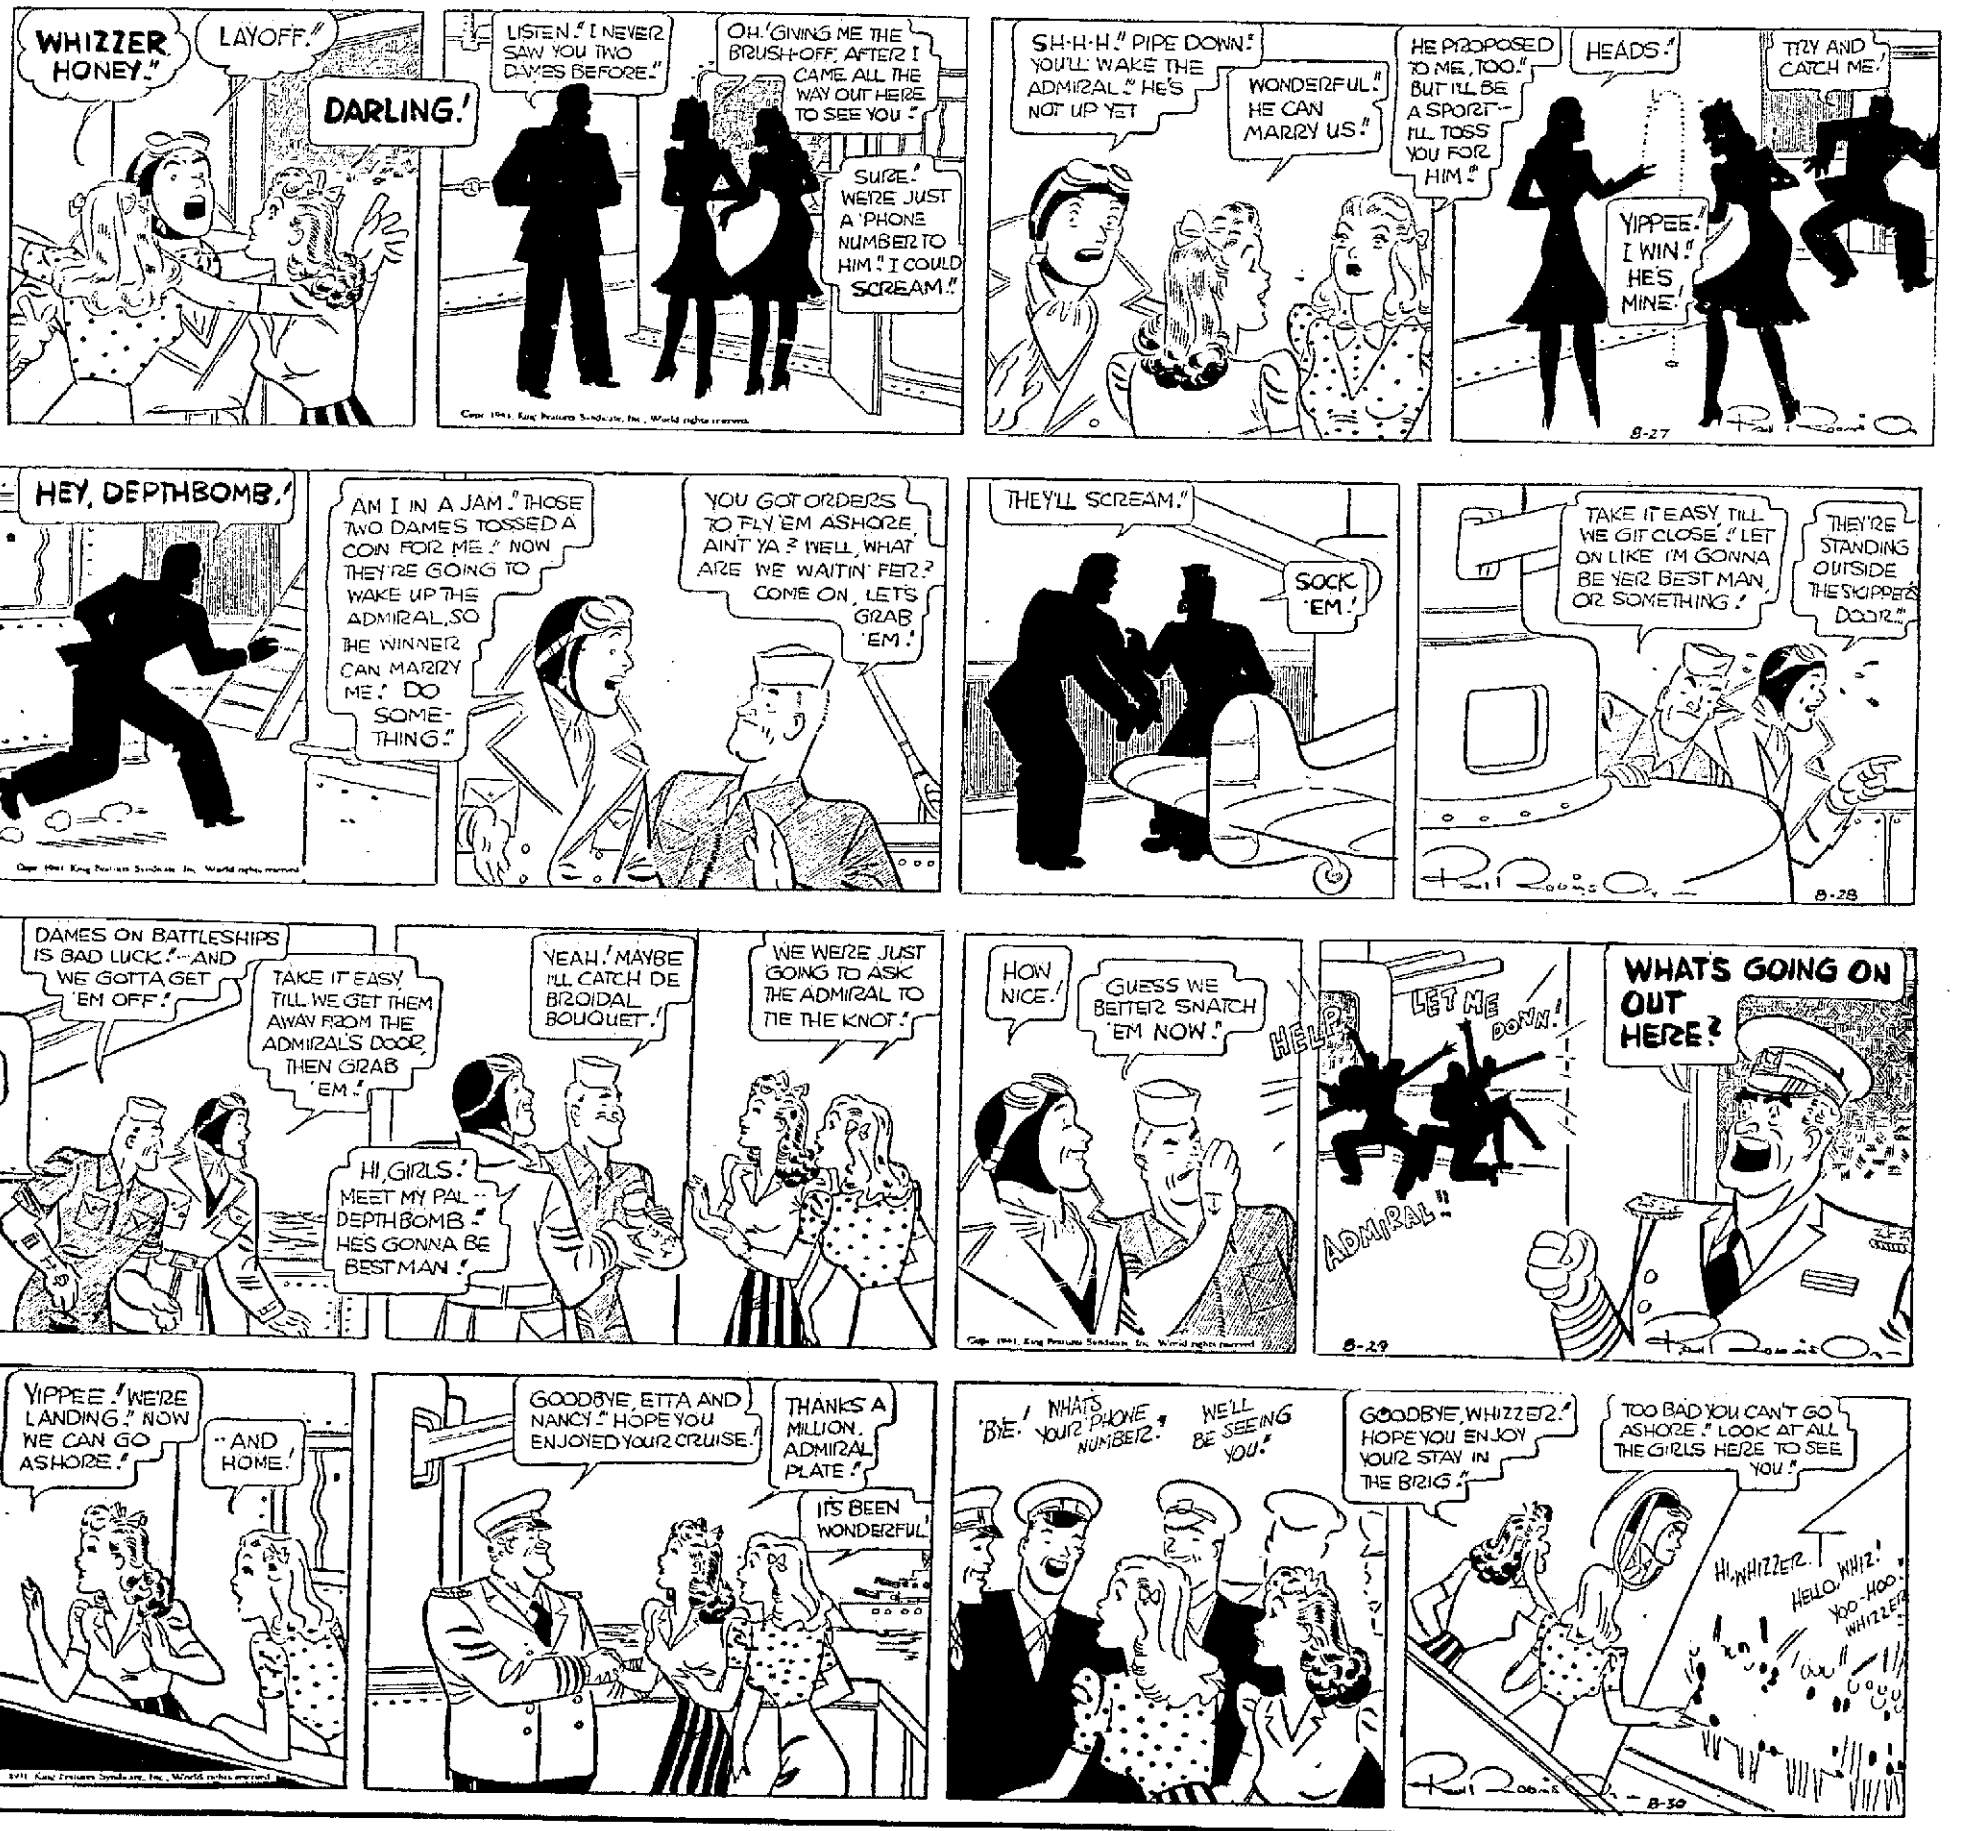
HI YA, DEPTHBOMB. I'VE GOTTA FLY A PAIR OF QUEENS BACK TO SHORE.
WHERE ARE THEY?
THEY AIN'T GOIN'.
THAT'S WHAT THEY THINK. IT'S THE ADMIRAL'S ORDERS. THAT'S MUTINY.
THEY SAY THEY'RE OLD GIRL FRIENDS OF YOURS, AND THEY CAME OUT TO SEE YOU — AND THEY'RE STAYIN'.
GIRL FRIENDS OF MINE. LEAPING CATFISH.
LISTEN, YOU DAMES —
WHIZZER, HONEY.
DARLING!
8-26



WHIZZER, HONEY.
LAYOFF.
DARLING!
LISTEN. I NEVER SAW YOU TWO DAMES BEFORE.
OH, GIVING ME THE BRUSH-OFF, AFTER I CAME ALL THE WAY OUT HERE TO SEE YOU.
SURE. WE'RE JUST A 'PHONE NUMBER TO HIM. I COULD SCREAM.
SH-H-H. PIPE DOWN. YOU'LL WAKE THE ADMIRAL. HE'S NOT UP YET
WONDERFUL. HE CAN MARRY US.
HE PROPOSED TO ME, TOO. BUT I'LL BE A SPORT — I'LL TOSS YOU FOR HIM.
HEADS.
TRY AND CATCH ME.
YIPPEE. I WIN. HE'S MINE.
8-27

HEY, DEPTHBOMB.
AM I IN A JAM. THOSE TWO DAMES TOSSED A COIN FOR ME. NOW THEY'RE GOING TO WAKE UP THE ADMIRAL, SO THE WINNER CAN MARRY ME. DO SOMETHING.
YOU GOT ORDERS TO FLY 'EM ASHORE, AIN'T YA? WELL, WHAT ARE WE WAITIN' FER? COME ON, LET'S GRAB 'EM.
THEY'LL SCREAM.
SOCK 'EM.
TAKE IT EASY TILL WE GIT CLOSE. LET ON LIKE I'M GONNA BE YER BEST MAN OR SOMETHING.
THEY'RE STANDING OUTSIDE THE SKIPPER'S DOOR.
8-28

DAMES ON BATTLESHIPS IS BAD LUCK. AND WE GOTTA GET 'EM OFF.
TAKE IT EASY TILL WE GET THEM AWAY FROM THE ADMIRAL'S DOOR, THEN GRAB 'EM.
YEAH. MAYBE I'LL CATCH DE BROIDAL BOUQUET.
WE WERE JUST GOING TO ASK THE ADMIRAL TO TIE THE KNOT.
HI, GIRLS. MEET MY PAL DEPTHBOMB. HE'S GONNA BE BEST MAN.
HON NICE.
GUESS WE BETTER SNATCH 'EM NOW.
HELP!
LET ME DOWN!
ADMIRAL!
WHAT'S GOING ON OUT HERE?
8-29

YIPPEE. WE'RE LANDING. NOW WE CAN GO ASHORE.
AND HOME.
GOODBYE, ETTA AND NANCY. HOPE YOU ENJOYED YOUR CRUISE.
THANKS A MILLION, ADMIRAL PLATE.
IT'S BEEN WONDERFUL.
'BYE. WHAT'S YOUR 'PHONE NUMBER? WE'LL BE SEEING YOU.
GOODBYE, WHIZZER. HOPE YOU ENJOY YOUR STAY IN THE BRIG.
TOO BAD YOU CAN'T GO ASHORE. LOOK AT ALL THE GIRLS HERE TO SEE YOU.
HI, WHIZZER.
HELLO, WHIZ.
YOO-HOO, WHIZZER.
